KNIGHTS ASK U. S. INTERVENTION

DEMAND ACTION OF NATION IN MEXICAN RELIGIOUS DISPUTE

Charge Mexico Is Rus- sianized At Con- vention

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. Asserting that Mexican officials had "insulted, degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government," the supreme council, Knights of Columbus, today called on President Coolidge and the state department to "put an end to this ignominious contempt" that had been shown by President Calles "for Americans' appeal."

Demand was made for protection of American citizens and for their treatment with the same consideration and respect that is shown to Mexicans in this country.

The American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations were urged to co-operate to safeguard "not only American rights, but the hard-won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to despotic authority."

The convention authorized the supreme board of directors to assess the membership of the organization $1,000,000 for a campaign of education, "to the end that the politics of Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of American life and the ideals of liberty of conscience and democratic freedom may extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande."

The religious situation in Mexico as it affects the Catholic church was considered one of the most important questions before the convention since it convened last Monday. A special committee, appointed to consider the matter, reported today and its report was unanimously adopted.

After protesting against the policy of President Calles "on his recent despotism of the armed forces of his military regime in oppressing the vast majority of the people of Mexico, who are struggling to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience," the statement said:

"We warn our fellow American citizens that they cannot endure at their very doorstep, with impunity, the Russianizing of Mexico. The soviet philosophy controls the military powers of Mexico. The family to them is a myth and marriage a degradation. They have robbed it of its sanctity. Their conception of God is contempt for all religions."

After declaring that civil and religious freedom are suppressed in Mexico, the statement continues:

"All this system in Mexico has been created under American auspices, sustained by American executive authority which, in the first place, while refusing to recognize Lenin and Trotsky, have by executive order of recognition, accepted Calles and Obregon, who are the enthusiastic supporters of the bolshevik concept of government."

THISTLEDOWN RACE PROGRAM HALTED

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Horse racing at Thistledown track near here, scheduled to continue until Aug. 14, was called off today following issuance of an injunction by Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court to stop all forms of gambling.

At the same time Attorney General C. C. Crabbe announced in Columbus that the injunction sets a precedent by which gambling will be stopped at every other track in the state. Cancellation of other scheduled meets was considered possible in view of the announcement.

NATIVES BURNED TO DEATH IN AFRICA

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 6.—Flames swept an area approximately five miles square today at Illovo, near Durban, trapping thirteen natives who were burned to death. Several planters were ruined by the destruction of 2,000 acres of sugar cane.

SCALDED BY ALKALI

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 6.—Henry Rowland, 42, millwright, was severely scalded when he jumped into a tank of alkali here today. His clothing caught fire from a gasoline torch and looking around for some way to extinguish the flames, he jumped into the vat thinking it was water. His condition is serious.

FORMER COMMANDER OF CAMP SHERMAN IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

General Glenn Is Dead At Mentor—Was Retired

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Brigadier General Edwin Forbes, Glenn, 69, retired, former commander of Fort Hayes, Columbus, and war commander of Camp Sherman, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James E. Garfield, Mentor, Ohio. Death was due to paralysis.

General Glenn served forty-six years in the army. He was born in Greensboro, N. C. and was graduated from West Point in 1877.

He held honorary degrees from Ohio University, Kenyon College, DePauw University, Union College and the University of Vermont.

General Glenn commanded exploring and relief expeditions in Alaska in 1898 and later was in the department of the judge advocate department. In 1905 he was commander of the Columbus barracks until 1907. He organized Camp Sherman and trained the 83rd division there. When it moved to France, General Glenn also went overseas as an observer on various fronts.

PINCHOT MAY MAKE FIGHT FOR SENATE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 6.—Political circles here today were astir following the statement of Governor Gifford Pinchot that he would announce his decision on whether he would be an independent candidate for the Senate within four weeks.

The statement of the governor made following his inspection of the state troops at Mt. Gretna was the first definite statement made by the chief executive on his political plan since the primary.

While Pinchot refused to make a definite statement regarding his views on an independent race, persons who heard the statement were inclined to believe that the governor intends to make the campaign against William S. Vare, Republican and William B. Wilson, Democrat.

BURNS TO DEATH

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Playing near a fire in the rear of her home, resulted in the death of Rae Reuben, 6, today when she died from her burns. The child pulled a piece of blazing paper from the fire which ignited her dress.

REPORT DISSENSION IN RANKS OF HALL-MILLS MURDER PROBE

Special Prosecutor Says Order for Warrants Ignored —State Police Say Order Not Received By Them

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 6.—A drift toward that same lack of harmony which four years ago sent the first investigation of the Hall-Mills murder into blind alleys, has been indicated by Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor.

His order to the state police to make out warrants for the arrest of two persons, had not been followed, he said. At state troopers' headquarters it was held that such an order had not been received.

This was the first real indication of friction in the present probe. Simpson had wanted the arrests of Ralph Goralline, vestrman and member of the church choir in the last night by persons presumably in search of official papers believed to have been retained by the former prosecutor.

Mrs. Nellie L. Russell, the negro woman was the cause of another slight squabble between the special prosecutor and the state police. Simpson had wanted her arrested as a "material witness."

Lamb of the state constabulary said that Simpson had referred to her as a "state witness."

She had stayed up all night waiting to be arrested.

An attempt was made to break into the home of the late Azariah Beekman, former prosecutor of Somerset County, at Bound Brook last night by persons presumably in search of official papers believed to have been retained by the former prosecutor.

Frank Herling, who came to arrest her instead took her to a restaurant where she ate her fill and then to a detention home where she will be cared for until a suitable home is found for her.

Pursued by two state prohibition inspectors operating out of Montgomery County, who wanted him on a charge of possession of liquor, J. W. Keeler, Dayton, was chased over the Montgomery County line into Greene County before he was finally captured near Bellbrook Thursday night.

Because the arrest was made in this county, Keeler was arraigned before Probate Judge S. C. Wright and pleaded not guilty Friday morning. Date for his hearing has not been set.

He was placed under $1,000 bond and remanded to the Greene County Jail until he can arrange for bail. The arrest was made by State Prohibition Inspector J. E. Watts, Dayton, and another dry officer.

New York City and Sioux City, Iowa, agents already have begun clean ups in their districts.

The sleuths have been told to stop prescription bootlegging and the selling of "out" medicinal whiskey by drug stores. Investigations by government detectives showed many millions of gallons of whiskey leaking through these channels.

Samples of liquor handled by druggists are being taken by special prohibition agents assigned to this work.

The samples will be analyzed by government chemists and druggists found selling "cut" whiskey on prescription will lose their licenses to deal in medicinal liquors.

The policy of the prohibition unit is to assure pure and unadulterated liquor for medicinal needs and at the same time prevent the genuine pre-Volstead product from reaching the bootleg market.

OFFICER KILLED IN DUEL WITH ALLEGED RUM RUNNING CROWD

Shot When Deputies Surround Cache Of Liquor

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 6.—Sheriff Sam Dunfee of Belmont County, died in a hospital here early today as a result of a fight with an alleged rum runner.

The alleged bootlegger who has not been identified was seriously wounded in the fight and Albert Dellotti, believed to be his companion, was under arrest in the county jail in connection with the shooting.

Sheriff Dunfee, Chief Deputy J. M. Purse and five special deputies, advised that an effort was being made to remove a store of liquor last night, surrounded the cache.

An automobile arrived after midnight and began loading the liquor.

Dunfee walked from his hiding place directly toward the automobile. His deputies were scattered on all sides. As the sheriff approached the driver of the automobile opened fire and felled Dunfee with a bullet in the right lung.

The second man made a dash for the woods and was captured. The driver of the automobile started to escape but Special Deputy Harry Bell opened fire and three bullets struck the driver. He was brought to the hospital here and automobile and seventeen cases of liquor were confiscated.

She placed to sleep.

Then a solution presented itself. As the store was closing she slipped under a counter, laid down on a stock of remnants and enjoyed an untroubled sleep, awakening just in time to slip out unnoticed with the first of the early shoppers.

Last night she faced the same problem and met it in the same way, but James Bell, night watchman, was attracted by her deep breathing. Police arrived and found Irene, now awake and sobbing. She told her story and wanted of food.

Frank Herling, who came to arrest her instead took her to a restaurant where she ate her fill and then to a detention home where she will be cared for until a suitable home is found for her.

McAlister held a slight lead over Peay throughout the night. The governor retired and was up early today when northwestern counties gave him a heavy plurality. Shelby County, in which Memphis is situated and west Tennessee generally apparently were carried by McAlister. Neal's vote was negligible.

GUARDSMEN ON DUTY AFTER CANTON THREATS

Special Guard at Home of Search For McDermott Broadened—De- scriptions Sent Out

CANTON, O., Aug. 6.—National guardsmen resumed duty here today, under Col. C. F. Bleum, as threats of violence and civic unrest resulting from the assassination of Don R. Mellett, newspaper publisher, continued.

The home of Herman R. Witter, former mayor, now state director of public relations, was guarded throughout the night at the order of Gov. Donahey. Witter, who conducted a personal investigation of the Mellett murder reported that his house was to be dynamited by a strange man prowling the neighborhood at night.

A guard at the home of County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock fired at a fleeing automobile today. He was knocked to the street when he attempted to board the car after it had cruised back and forth in front of the house a number of times.

Joseph Roach, Chicago special prosecutor assisting Acting Chief of Police Earl Hexamer, spent most of his day of investigation conferring with authorities.

The hunt for Patrick McDermott, believed to hold the key that will solve the murder mystery, appeared to be at a standstill. Movements of a Canton attorney were traced in the belief he may have been in touch with the fugitive. Refusal of Mayor S. M. Swarts to accept the recommendations of a citizens committee for a police shake up was denounced in a statement from the committee. It charged the mayor with refusing unfairly to move for civic harmony.

EVOLUTION DEFEAT INDICATED BY VOTE IN TENNESSEE RACE

Governor Claims Nom- ination By Small Majority

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Evolution suffered a smashing defeat at the hands of the voters of Tennessee in the primary yesterday.

Governor Austin Peay, seeking re-nomination and Hill McAlister, state treasurer, were running neck and neck, with Dr. John R. Neal, lawyer and liberal who headed the Scopes defense in the Dayton "Monkey trial" trailing far behind. McAlister sponsored Tennessee's law prohibiting evolution in the schools. Peay supported the law enthusiastically.

McAlister held a slight lead over Peay throughout the night. The governor retired and was up early today when northwestern counties gave him a heavy plurality. Shelby County, in which Memphis is situated and west Tennessee generally apparently were carried by McAlister. Neal's vote was negligible.

HEAT CONTINUES TO ATTACK MID-WEST; NO RELIEF COMING

Forecasts Predict High- er Temperature For Section

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The sun beat down on the midwest again today continuing the heat wave which caused over two score deaths in the district yesterday. Two people died of heat in Chicago alone, bringing a two day toll up to fifteen.

Forecasts for today predicted even higher temperatures before night in the central states although slightly cooler weather was in store for the Northwest.

In Chicago, where the temperature reached a maximum of 91 degrees, numerous prostrations were recorded in addition to the deaths. Fourteen people were bitten by heat crazed dogs. Several prisoners collapsed in the Cook County Jail where windows have been nailed down because of recent attempts at escape.

Parks and bathing beaches were utilized all last night by Chicago residents in their efforts to dodge the heat.

AMERICAN SWIMMER STARTS ATTEMPT ON FRENCH COAST LINE

Shifting Wind May Be Handicap—Girl Op- timistic

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 6.—Making good progress and swimming fast Miss Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimmer was today ploughing across the waters of the English channel toward Dover.

The skies were somewhat overcast, however, and a wind had blown up after she entered the water at 7:09 a. m. under weather conditions which had seemed better calculated for her second attempt to swim the channel.

As the winds swung around to the southwest and the sea became more agitated Miss Ederle began to appear annoyed at the shifting weather. When the wind changed she was five and a half miles from the French coast.

As the escort tug Alsace followed the girl swimmer, a French boat, the Nicolas Shiffon, exchanged salutes with the escort vessel, the French crew cheering Miss Ederle.

At 9:40 a launch from Dover, England came alongside the Alsace drawing up under her quarter. An hour later it left for Dover and the tug La Morinie, carrying a journalist, came alongside the swimmer's escort tug.

On advice of her trainer, Bill Burgess, the second man to swim the channel, Miss Ederle had retired early last night. Burgess expressed the opinion that she was in fine condition and was confident she would be the first woman to swim the channel.

She arrived at the shore in a taxicab this morning. The air was chilly but the young swimmer did not seem to notice the cool of the day as she disappeared into a garage for her final gear bag.

Miss Ederle was rubbed with a mixture of vaseline and lanoline. Instead of a one piece bathing suit she wore slips, with the emblem of the Women's Swimming Association and a small American flag on the chest.

Adjusting heavy goggles as she came out of the garage, Miss Ederle strolled confidently to the water.

Spectators and camera men awaited her there and they exchanged greetings.

She appeared to be in the best of spirits, joking about the grease which covered her in layers.

"I'll make it this time," she predicted.

A hundred watchers had gathered on the beach. Much laughter came from the crowd as a dog jumped from the deck of the tug into the water and swam after his master who was in the rowboat.

Burgess kissed Miss Ederle on the cheek as she started to enter the water. Cries of farewell and shouted good wishes came from the crowd as Miss Ederle waded out, walking until the water was up to her neck. Then she began swimming, with Burgess accompanying her. The tug moved on with the swimmers and the rowboat, manned by two oarsmen to help up its long course. An American and a French flag flew from the smaller craft.

Here Is List Of Candidates For State And County Offices On Both Tickets

Greene County voters must make their selection of candidates from 105 names at the primaries next Tuesday.

Republicans will pick their choice from seventy-seven names on the party ballots, including big fields for all state offices, except chief justice of the supreme court and some of the county offices. In addition voters will pick a central committee candidate from their precincts. Democratic ballots contain the names of thirty candidates, the list being shortened by failure of candidates to seek nomination for county offices. They must also pick central committee men.

Race for governor on the Republican ticket draws the biggest field, with twelve candidates while eleven seeking the office of lieutenant governor and eight each for U. S. Senator and treasurer of state. Five Democrats want to be lieutenant governor and four each are running for the nomination for governor, secretary of state and attorney general.

NEWSPAPER PROGRESS SHOWN BY VALUATION WHEN PAPERS SOLD

The early editor bought a barrel of type, a small hand-press, a small quantity of newspaper ink and began the precarious occupation of publishing a newspaper.

Last winter the Chicago Daily News, a modern, metropolitan daily, was sold to Walter A. Strong and the staff of the paper for $13,671,704.30, thereby setting a high water mark for all time for the value of newspaper properties the world over.

The difference between the price brought by the News and the probable monetary value of the equipment and stock that went into the pioneer newspaper, represents the measure of achievement and progress in the last century, not only in the newspaper field but in America.

The Chicago sale is recalled by

August a Healthy Month!

The reason however is that MOST of us exercise more than usual and are outdoors more. Keeps your liver up on its toes! If you're NOT getting these liver gymnastics you're going to lead a tuff life. A box of Liver Salts at 25c is a remedy we advise you to keep handy.

Take a Kidney Frinstance

Odd organ the Kidney—never realize its outta whack until your back feels like a mule kicked you! Then you dash into a doctor or in HERE and many times you've let your trouble get too tite a grip on you for US to handle quickly. That's why we suggest Rexall Kidney Pills as an occasional treatment to PREVENT such troubles.

How Does He Do It?

You all know the chap who can eat "anything he wants." Midnight lunches, heavy dinners leave him happy, smiling and HEALTHY! If you investigate you'll find he's an occasional buyer of our Stomach Remedy which keeps him fit and efficient all the time.

Have You Seen All You Want To?

In that case what happens to your eyes won't cause you any sleepless nights! But Wilson Goggles he believe add many a comfort, many a day of brightness to your eyes and don't forget you've only GOT the two of 'em to last a life time!

I Know Of No Better Way!

Some folks when they feel a yearn to express their civic pride and patriotism have the splendid ability to "get up in meeting" and shoot off verbal fireworks that delight, amaze and convince! I wish I could DO just that—but I can't!

For some time I've felt a yearn of this sort and accompanying it was a feeling that I owed this community a great big gesture of appreciation of some sort. Boiling down these tremors and studying the matter carefully I came to the conclusion that NO BETTER gesture could be made than to give to Xenia the BEST DRUG STORE, the most COMFORTABLE drug store in southwestern Ohio!

And THIS I am DOING!

I'm torn up a bit as you've probably noticed but hold tight for a few days and you'll see a brand smack dab new store rise grandly from the smashed and broken timbers of the old one!

Can YOU figure a BETTER way for me to show appreciation to you folks for your many years of confidence in me? A BETTER way to prove my complete confidence in Greene County and Xenia?

Shorty Says:
I'd like to have Doc ask ME a BETTER WAY to show this appreciation stuff! I've got THREE BETTER WAYS! The

FIRST one is a Raise in Salary, the SECOND is More Wages for me and the THIRD is More Money in my pay envelope each week. And he don't need no new store to do THAT either! Doc's wasting a lotta energy, what I mean.

Why Make Faces At Rudolf?

Just because he looks like he's just trotted out of a band box is no reason to get sore at him is it? A 50c jar of Hair Fix will make YOUR hair just as slick looking as his and a tube of Klenzo Paste makes your teeth glisten just as wickedly. Why make faces?

A Clean Pure Back!

It's a cinch to scrub your chest, your hands and both knees back but it's a real contortion to polish your backbone! That's why a wise old muscle-bound chap invented these bath brushes with a curved handle. Sell for $1.25 each and are worth $2400 in contentment. Invest.

Finest We've Ever Seen!

It only goes to show what competition does! Two years ago you'd paid twice or three times as much for stationery equal to this Hall Croft we're able to sell for 60c a box! We bought in big quantity this time so's to give you the lowest possible price.

DOCTORS REPORT NO HEAT PROSTRATIONS

Xenians seem to be bearing up well under the extreme hot weather, since no cases of heat prostration have been reported by local doctors. The heat and humidity seem to cause only general lassitude, with no serious results.

No relief was promised until Saturday, when cooler weather with showers was promised. Friday's sun was veiled behind threatening clouds which did not save anyone from the full benefits of the heat.

The little circulation stirring was of the hot, humid sort and gave little or no relief. Crowds at the Greene County Fair were unimpaired by the weather and fair skies smiled on the Fair period, so far.

Mrs. H. H. Eavey, W. Market St., returned home Friday morning from a three weeks' trip through the West. She visited the Yellowstone and other points of interest and spent a week with friends in Chicago.

A weather freak was displayed here last Tuesday when the rain fell in torrents throughout the eastern part of town and scarcely a drop fell in the western section.

The dividing line was near the M. E. Church on Franklin St.

Another candidate for sheriff in the person of H. L. Hupman was in town last week appealing to his Republican friends for their votes, and to his Democratic friends for their influence.

A. A. McNeil passed through town last Monday with a small cargo of antiques. A pair of lanterns that looked to be at least one hundred years old, and closely resembling the two that were hung by Paul Revere's friend in the "Old North Church" at Boston on the night preceding the battles of Lexington and Concord, helped to make up the collection.

The bus-line between Waynesville and Lebanon now makes four round trips a day, and makes connections for Cincinnati, Dayton, Bellbrook and Spring Valley.

The annual meeting of the Church of Christ in Greene County was held at the Perry Church of Christ last Sunday, the singing, speaking etc., occupying almost the entire day. A free dinner for all visitors was served in the basement of the church.

C. K. Wolf, the only Democratic candidate thus far to make a canvass of the county, has notified his political comrades here that conclusions in the National House of Representatives at Washington have become most deplorable, and the time has come when a Democrat like himself can lead the party to victory by overcoming a Republican majority of 20,000 in the fourth district.

The Operetta, entitled "Yanki San" which was presented by home talent players at the new schoolhouse on last Saturday night, was enjoyed by a fair crowd.

Those to take part were: Grace Graf, Elizabeth Griffiths, Cora Duggett, Madeline Rhonemus, Mary Etta Grotfelter, Geneva Bond, Helen and Hester Kemp, Ellsworth Grotfelter, Louise Berryhill, Chilton Bowes, Richard, Roger and James Turner and Lawrence Kemp.

PROBLEM OF CRIME

A distinguished New York lawyer, Charles A. Boston, in his address before the American Bar Association convention at Denver, gave utterance to a thought which, perhaps, sometimes has forced itself upon the consciousness of every student of the modern crime problem.

Mr. Boston in the course of his remarks said: "While I have no certain solution and no panacea, I do wonder sometimes whether we might not, under the regulation of law, so as to prevent intolerable abuse, utilize and develop a citizen constabulary, properly organized, properly officered, subject to call like a fire department, answerable for misuse of power, but endowed with some of the functions of a vigilance committee, and as quick in action as the hue and cry is to apprehend if not to try."

As has been said, this thought frequently has been indulged by social students—often has been emphasized during periods of emotional excitement. But the proposition is untenable. It suggests admission of the law's failure to function for the protection and security of society. It repudiates fundamental constitutional guarantees. It is suggestive of a reversion to the law of the jungle. It is anything but democratic, wholly un-American.

What is needed in the United States is a recodification of the criminal laws, the inexorable enforcement by courts of legal decrees, the alert and honest administration of law by every public servant charged with such duty. When less time, attention and expenditure of impressive sums of money are devoted to the effort to enforce a single statute at the expense of all others it may be possible somewhat to curb the force of the alarming menace of criminal devastation that is cursing this commonwealth.

THE MOTOR CAR FEVER

The average citizen has a faint idea of how the motor car traffic has gripped the nation. But it often takes a set of figures to tell the real story of motor cars, and what they mean to folks in this day and generation.

These figures come from the national touring board of the American Automobile Association, which, in commenting on the fact that the automobile vacationists this year exceed greatly all previous records, has this to say:

"Thirty-six million persons are spending their vacations behind the steering wheels of 9,000,000 automobiles and are spending $3,000,000,000 on camping, hotel, gasoline and other expenses.

"One-third of the nation's population is following the gasoline trail this summer. One-third of the motorists will camp in the open, an average of 33 days each. The other two-thirds spend approximately 10 days each on tour. These persons spend their nights in hotels.

"Each automobile involves an expense of about $10 a day during the touring season, if it belongs to the open-air camping brigade, and approximately three times that much if hotels are patronized.

"Between 22,000,000 and 26,000,000 persons took their outings in automobiles last summer."

No such agency has ever existed, perhaps, that called so great a number of people always into the great open spaces.

So when one thinks of the bettered health of the present day, the credit that should be given to the motor car can hardly be overlooked.

A NEW CROP EVERY DAY

German business and professional men were among those swindled out of large sums by two confidence men claiming possession of a formula for changing salt into gold. Another member of the same band of rogues sold stock in an apparatus for which he claimed the power of drawing great quantities of electricity from the air.

Both of these crooked schemes would have been just as successful in this country or any other. No one nation has a monopoly on gullibility. Confidence games not less suspicious than the German schemes are finding suckers in every section of the United States every day.

So easy is it to swindle the average human being that state legislatures are finding it advisable to enact special legislation for the protection of those who are not to be trusted with their own money. In several states, bureaus have been created for the sole purpose of scrutinizing stock-selling propositions so there will be no wildcat stocks for the too-credulous to be mulcted by.

Even these extraordinary measures for the protection of the public are not sufficient for the more gullible. Worthless securities banned and branded by the government have been sold on the spurious story that the officials are trying to prevent others from "striking it rich."

Some people prefer to be swindled than to be pestered by the swindler. Others know they haven't a chance, but like to gamble against great odds. But the great body of dupes believe it is "a sure thing" and blame the confidence man when they learn they have been cheated.

CONTRIBUTED RECIPES

Kind Reader Friends have sent me the following recipes for other women to enjoy:

"Salmon Pudding" (recently requested by someone). Mince one can of salmon, saving the can liquor for sauce. To the fish add four tablespoons of melted butter, one-half cup of the cracker crumbs, a pinch each of salt and pepper, and three well beaten eggs. Turn the mixture into a buttered mold, and set this in a pan of hot water. Cover and steam for one hour, adding more boiling water as the original amount evaporates. Dip the mold in cold water a minute, to loosen contents, then turn out onto a platter. Over the "pudding" pour the following hot Sauce: Heat one cup of sweet milk to the boiling point, and thicken it with one tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Add a teaspoonful of butter, the salmon liquor from the pan, and one egg well beaten. Remove from fire, season to suit individual taste with salt and pepper, and let uates, covered, before serving.

Lemon slices make a good garnish for this dish.—N. F.

stand in hot water for three minutes, covered, before serving.

"Spanish Salad: Chop well done boiled or roast beef in pieces the size of a pea. To this meat add one-half of a can of peas, a little vinegar, one bunch of celery chopped, salt and pepper to suit individual liking, and one cupful of any good bottled salad dressing (Mayonnaise). Mix all together, and heap onto crisp lettuce leaves. Put a dab of extra dressing on top and garnish with chopped pickles, if desired, and chopped Chili peppers if you have them.—Mrs. S. B."

"Upside-Down Cake: Ingredients are: One-fourth pound of brown sugar, one-fourth pound of butter, one-half cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of cold, sweet milk, one cup of flour, one egg, one-half teaspoon of baking powder (Mayonnaise). Mix all together, and heap onto crisp lettuce leaves. Put a dab of extra dressing on top and garnish with chopped pickles, if desired, and chopped Chili peppers if you have them.—Mrs. S. B."

Put the brown sugar in a cake pan with lumps of one-half the amount of butter. Place pan in hot oven one minute to soften. Now mix cake batter in the usual way—cream sugar and butter, add egg and milk, then flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Flavor with a drop or two of vanilla. Lay pineapple in bottom of cake pan on the brown sugar, pour cake batter over it, and bake in a warm oven, gradually increasing heat till done. Turn out (bottom side up) onto a cake plate, put cherry in center of each piece of pineapple and serve with or without whipped cream.—D. K. B."

The Theatre

The shades of William Shakespeare must be smiling kindly down on the theater world. What with the long run his plays have enjoyed all last season, there comes the authentic report from the Pacific Coast that John Barrymore has been offered ten thousand dollars a week to play the sad, sad Dane. Barrymore has refused.

From Atlantic City comes a report that Ziegfeld, a bit jealous of these modern Hamlets, will do his own classic glorifying of the American Girl in dress clothes. Not an ankle shall be shown, not a lovely bare back. Ziegfeld in dress clothes? Shakespeare went over big in modern dress. But the books, music and lyrics better be good.

The sophistication and ultra-broadmindedness of the European motion picture public are being questioned. And on the other hand, we are continually being told American audiences are the opposite. This legend seems to be exploded when "The Big Parade" aroused a storm of opposition in London. Englishmen in all seriousness declare it glorifies the American doughboy and points to America winning the war. The fine qualities of the film were overlooked in the maze of provincial narrowness.

When Famous Players started to make "The Rough Rider," a country-wide search was instituted for a man who looked like Theodore Roosevelt, and who could act the role. The man, Frank Hopper, was noticed on a Los Angeles street by a woman who read of the search, and got the job when she suggested his application. Cautiously he had been an actor for eighteen years and had given up unable to get a job.

William Baundine, dean of Warner Brothers' directorial staff, has asked the Women's Clubs of California to help disseminate to their sisters in the East and Midwest the latest caution from aspiring to become motion picture stars. "The influx of young women and girls to this film center has started anew and although the extra ranks are already greater than the demand at all studios, it looks as though Hollywood soon is to be deluged with superfluous talent and near-talent," he declares.

GREEN ST.

It is said that the love of money is the root of all evil. But it would be hard to get any citizen of the county to admit Green St. in Xenia is an evil, and yet it was a desire on the part of County Commissioners to obtain money for the use of the county, which led to the setting off of part of the public square as a street.

Commissioners first tried to sell a part of the square, and baffled in this direction, they resorted to leasing parts of the square for fifteen year periods.

Commissioners in 1835, needed money, and needed it badly. They had just completed, several years before, a two-story, six-room office building in the square, and in 1835 were in the midst of the erection of a new jail.

They conceived the plan of leasing three separate lots for a period of ninety-nine years, one on the southeast corner of the square, the second abutting the alley on the south side of the jail lot and finally a lot on Detroit St. At that time the county was already leasing to the city, a strip eighty feet wide on the north side of the square for a market house and yard, an engine house, public scales and a public wood yard.

But in order that there might be access to the lots on the east side of the square, commissioners were forced to provide a street or alley along this side—hence came about the street known today as Green St.

THE HOUSE AND THE SPIRIT

I builded me a house,

As safe as man could build it,

With rugs and chairs and portieres

And pretty things I filled it,

And then said I, from year to year

My loved ones should be happy here.

But I was one to roam,

And I was one to wander—

I could not stay with them to play.

Fame called to me off yonder,

And so I left them there alone

To follow wishes of my own.

Thought I they must be glad

With all that I've supplied them,

No joy they miss which makes

for bliss,

There's naught that I've denied them.

But oft when I'd come home from town

I heard them sigh and saw them frown.

Then once they said to me:

"Oh, can't you guess our sorrow?

From rugs and chairs and portieres

No pleasure can we borrow.

'Tis you we need from day to day,

There is no joy with you away."

And so I set it down—

The home that man is keeping,

Today's Talk

THE SERVILITY OF IMITATION

I can excuse about everything in a man who is himself and who doesn't make any boast of it.

I can learn more from such a man merely by just watching him than by listening for hours to him who has tried to pick up everything he could from others and then plaster it to himself as though it were himself.

The fact is that there are very few original thinking and acting men. The world, somehow, won't let them be that way—but if the man is big enough, he acts himself anyway. And then the world just smiles because it can't help it, and both men and women hail this chap as a born genius!

Some great man once said that genius was the capacity for taking great pains. But I am of the opinion that genius is simply being yourself in spite of the world, the flesh and the devil!

I am sure that the most honest people in the world are those who act nearest to what they think is right and do nearest what to them seems the highest expression of themselves.

The servility of imitation breeds a most unwholesome spirit into the world. It makes weaklings of otherwise possibly great men.

The pampered boy nearly always gets a "knockout" in the first round of life's royal fist fight. But he who was early turned loose to "find out" and to take blow for blow, stays the contest out and is returned a winner.

You can't be the other fellow. Then why try to imitate him? Do something that he can't do. You have what no other human being has. The important thing is to find out for yourself just what that particular something is.

—OF—

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

New Yorkers actually know little about their town. I know one who was born and raised down near the Battery yet he has never been closer to the Statue of Liberty than the seawall. He hasn't visited the Aquarium since he was six years old and doesn't recall that visit very vividly.

One night recently a crowd of typical New Yorkers—men and women who have lived here from ten to fifteen years—met at an up-town restaurant. A game was being played in which questions were asked to ascertain what those present knew of their city. So much ignorance of New York was displayed that the host finally passed out slips of paper on which were written the names of such well known places as the Woolworth Tower, Brooklyn Bridge, the Aquarium, Bronx Park Zoo, Coney Island, The Little Church Around The Corner. Each guest was asked to name the places he had seen. Only one had seen them all and more than half of those present had seen or been in less than half of the places mentioned.

That same night I arrived late at a convention of out-of-towners at Breton Hall. There were six men at the table where I sat down. Out of curiosity I asked these men how many of the places mentioned on the card they had visited during the four days they had been in New York. All but one of them had seen them all. The delinquent brother hadn't yet visited the Statue of Liberty! Maybe familiarity breeds contempt or, at least indifference.

Poking around on the East side near the river the other day I ventured into a Dickensian antique shop on Pearl Street—a shop, curiously enough, called Westminster Abbey. The place was littered with little, old model ships, pieces of armor, old pistols, odd pieces of bric-a-brac, or what will you have?

Behind a desk which one could easily believe had been used in ancient Egypt sat a white-haired old man—the proprietor. In a chat with him I learned that his father, who had started the shop was named Westminster Abbey; that he (the father) had known Abraham Lincoln and that, among the many valuables left by the original owner was an old daguerotype of the Great Emancipator; which, some day, will be bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum.

I chatted with this fine old man for half an hour or more but he showed no sign of wishing to make a sale. He appeared to get more enjoyment out of talking about the things he had for sale. He is unique among New York shopkeepers.

Harry Thaw's return to the rest pages of Metropolitan papers has helped revive memories of the man he slew—Stanford White. It is well, too, because in the course of a discourse on the Washington Square arch one night recently I discovered that not one person in a party of seven knew that it was designed by the man Thaw did to death in the tower of the old Madison Square Garden. This in spite of the fact that next to the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, Washington Square arch is the best known in the world.

Trotters Again Lower Fairground Track Record

WEDNESDAY MARK IS TWICE SHATTERED ON THURSDAY PROGRAM

New Mark 2:12 1-4; Need Extra Heat In First Race

The local track trotting record was lowered twice for the second time during the second day's meet at the Greene County Fair Thursday afternoon, in the first and second heats of the 2:14 trot, the feature offering, which went to the Lynchburg-owned gelding, New Hope, s. g., by Silver Finch, owned by L. A. Brown and driven by Crawford. The race was worth $400.

The new track mark of 2:12 1-4, one-fourth second under the record established Wednesday by the Findlay gelding, A. Z., is held jointly by New Hope and Little Azzoff, by Azzoff, owned by W. S. Drusly, Anderson, Ind.

Little Azzoff lowered the record first in the initial heat by winning handily when New Hope broke badly twice in the last half mile and began running after showing a flash of speed and seriously forcing the winner's pace around the turn. The gelding overtook and was almost alongside the leader to finish second but was placed in fifth position, out of the money, for running.

Crawford again had trouble with New Hope in the second heat but battled along and the courageous horse contributed a game effort to draw up from fourth place and finish with a rush, equalling Little Azzoff's new trotting mark for the mile. Little Azzoff dropped back to seventh position.

Because of the hot weather Drusly was permitted by the judges to withdraw Little Azzoff from the final heat. Betsy Tregantle, after running third and fifth, also succumbed to the torrid temperature, and withdrew.

With the main opposition gone, New Hope was still in difficulties in his final heat and while successful, provided the greatest entertainment of the meet to date. The horse broke shortly after assuming the lead, and then came from the last position in the last quarter to win by a gallant effort in a hard stretch drive.

Belle Lamonte, b. m., by Bellwin, owned and well driven by Frank A. Cares, Fremont, O., won the easiest kind of a victory over an ordinary small field in straight heats in the 2:15 Pace, second event on the program. The race was for a $350 purse.

Melba Cochato, an entry of J. D. Hensley, Daleville, Ind., finished second in each heat and Harry Forbes, owned by Harry Wood, Mechanicsburg, Ind., every heat. The former was always the early pacer but failed to respond to urging in the stretch and was usually in distress.

An extra heat was necessary to decide the opening event on the afternoon card, the 2:17 trot for a $350 purse. Tommy Axworthy, b. g., by Ortolan Axworthy, owned and driven by Fred Beddies, Dayton, supplied an upset by winning in the fourth and deciding heat from Bill Burro and Guy Worthy.

Guy Worthy actually finished in front but was disqualified by the judges for running in the stretch and placed in third position. Bill Burro took the first heat in convincing fashion and then wound up second the remaining brushes. Tommy Axworthy won the second and Guy Worthy the third.

Under the influence of fair weather and the fact Thursday is always the big day of the local fair, the largest attendance of the meet was recorded. Racing conditions were never better for the track was in excellent condition.

The fair was also graced with the presence of two leading candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Harry S. Day, state treasurer, attended the meet and after introductions, made short speeches.

Starting Judge A. S. Beaulieu inflicted the first fines of the meet Thursday when he fined Driver Wilsonholm $25 for repeatedly scoring Walter Frisco ahead of the pole horse in the second heat of the 2:15 pace and Driver Harrison $25 for a similar offense while holding the reins of Rose D in the middle heat of the 2:14 trot.

The meet will close Friday with the running of the Free-For-All Pace for the Nat Hunter $500 purse, the 2:25 trot and the 2:13 pace.

The racing during the past two days has been remarkable for the fast heats. A. TRACK NOTES

The Greene County Fair races this year are being conducted for the first time under the National Harness Horse Association rules and this innovation is not only proving satisfactory in every way but also immensely popular. Mr. Miller, representing the association at the fair, says the three-heat plan with every heat a race is drawing favorable comment on all sides. The new plan does away with so many long heats and enables the afternoon card to be finished in about three hours or better.

Peter Henley, world's champion double-gaited stallion, with a pacing record of 2:02 1-4 and a trotting mark of 2:06 3-4, owned by J. L. Haston and cared for by Omer VanKirk, Dayton, O., was displayed in front of the grand stand Thursday afternoon.

The stallion is by Peter the Great, (2:07 1-4), out of Queen Audubon by Audubon Boy (1:59 1-4), and is winner of The American Sportsman Stake, Western Horseman Futurity, the King Stake, Hotel Hartman Stake, et cetera.

Peter Henley is rated as the fastest, handsomest most richly bred and best race horse, son of Peter the Great.

The Xenia Municipal Band furnished musical entertainment Thursday between heats. The New Burlington Band had the stand Wednesday and the fair management planned for a different musical combination Friday.

In the second heat of the 2:17 trot Thursday the finish was so close between Tommy Axworthy and Bill Burro that the crowd found a lot of fault with the decision giving in to the former. It was almost a dead heat and the grand stand was divided in its opinion. A decision either way would have met with some disapproval in all events. However, Tommy Axworthy actually beat the Croton horse to the wire by the smallest possible fraction in the closest finish of the meet, the judges ruled.

Driver Wilsonholm, up behind Walter Frisco, drew the first fine of the meet in the second heat of the 2:15 pace for persistently scoring out in front of the pole horse. Starter Beaulieu fined him $25. Harrison was guilty of similar misbehavior behind Rose D in the middle heat of the 2:14 trot and the starter inflicted his second $25 penalty.

The racing during the past two days has been remarkable for the fast heats. A. MERCHANTS TO PLAY POLICEMEN HERE AT WASHINGTON PARK

Management of the Xenia Merchants, through the courtesy of owners of the Xenia Reserve Baseball Club has arranged to play the scheduled game with the Dayton Police Department Sunday afternoon at Washington Park instead of at the new Merchants' Park on E Main St.

The park would otherwise not be utilized Sunday as the Reserves travel to Harshmanville for the first of a series of three games with the strong Harshman nine.

The Dayton Police are well remembered for the wonderful game against the Reserves several weeks ago in which the "cops" lost a close 2 to 1 decision.

The Merchants are being primed for the game and expect to turn in a victory. There is no change in starting time for the game and "play ball" will be called at 3 o'clock, fast time, as usual.

RESERVES FURNISH TRUCKS FOR FANS ATTENDING FRACAS

Free transportation to Harshmanville Sunday afternoon for those fans wishing to attend the first of the three-game series between the Xenia Reserves and Harshman, is to be furnished by the Reserve management, it is announced.

Fans desiring to avail themselves of this offer are asked to meet at the American Restaurant, W. Main St., Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, fast time. The team as well as fans will make the trip in trucks chartered for the occasion.

The opening contest of the series is expected to be a thriller and a large Xenia crowd is expected to accompany the local nine to Harshmanville.

Cyphers will assume the task of hurling the initial game and will be opposed by his old team mate, Glass.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepps, Jr.: Up and put on my new sweater of cotton, which is very plain but good; when all of a sudden got a rent in one of the sleeves from catching it in the door latch; but if my wife will darn it, there will be no great blemish, yet it grieves me mightily.

So after a little bit to eat, took train for Cincinnati and on purpose got next to Sam Hill, the writer, my design being to make friends with him and get my name in print, but a poor impression I made, I know. With a great deal of patience put up with a fellow who tramped on my toes and held a paper in my face all the way.

Got in a few minutes loafing with my barber, but no beauties came to be bobbed to my sorrow. Abroad to get my heels fixed, and tipped the cobbler enough to buy a cigar, so pleased was I with the work though sorry he refrains from using Classified Ads. Among other things contrived a scheme to get the editor to send me to Florida to get ads but frightened to tell it.

Came J. L. Miller, an old time teacher, and Lord! to see what a fine educated fellow he is, and he knows far more than I, I admit. Fell to the old discourse about diagramming sentences, like we did in the old school days, and we in mighty high praise for the way of teaching in our boy time. Ashamed of my talk, so perfect was he in all that he said, that I mean to get books and set to studying at home to see if I cannot get a command of words far greater than I have now.

Home late where sat to cracking some walnuts for candy, picking out the kernels with a hairpin, till found myself stuffed and could hold no more. To see how I could manage to scrape up enough for my insurance, which is not much, yet more than I can stand. And so late to bed too tired for prayers.

WANTED—Girl to do housework, may have to wash a bit. —Ad in New York Paper.

Personally, I never did blame a man for starting at the top of the ladder and going down, no matter how high the ladder—that is if there was anything in the cellar when he got there. Start at the top of the Classified Columns this evening and read through them. You'll find many interesting bargains offered for sale.

AN UNWELCOME GUEST

If this tooth keeps on hurting,
For a dentist I will send;
There'll be a big swell gathering
I'll want him to attend.

A WISE MAN

How wise is the father
Who says: "Now my lads,
Go get the Gazette,
And read me the ads."

THE GIVING OF MANNA

THE GOLDEN TEXT: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John 6:35.

TIME: (Beecher) B. C. 1498, probably in the third month of the year.

PLACE: The Israelites travel southeastward near the Gulf of Suez, in the direction of Mount Sinai.

INTRODUCTION: The Israelites sang a now famous song of deliverance and then started on their long journey to that promised land. Their first stop was at Marah, where they found the water bitter and they murmured against Moses, because their faith in God was weak. Next they stopped at Elim, where there were palm trees and wells of sweet water. In the second month, on the fifteenth day they reached the wilderness of Sin, about which the present lesson is written.

1. CRY FOR BREAD: The people again cried out against Moses, and even God, because they were hungry and thought they were starving for want of bread. What foolish and forgetful people, yet we are just like them. God is able to deliver us in all instances if we have faith and trust in Him sincerely. Our faith is to depend on circumstances. We need a faith that is impervious to wind, weather, the emptiness of our flour barrel, and the state of our bank account. God is still God, even if we do not see just what we need, trust Him and He may give us even more than we had expected. Hunger is a powerful agency in all stations of life. Feed a starving man then read the Bible to him and the result will be gained but it will be lost if we try the reverse manner. Jesus first fed the hungry people before He preached to them and even in His model prayer He taught us to say, "Give us this day our daily bread."

2. GOD REBUKES MURMURING: Moses rebuked them for their foolish murmuring which was really against God instead of them.

When things do not come out to our plans and expectations we complain, just as they, and we imagine things should be better, when it is our fault. They thought that they would rather die in slavery, in Egypt, but they were insincere, because here they had liberty even if they did not have bread, and they did not want to die in a strange land. So when we truly think, we realize that those days are not nearly as good as the present. Having committed ourselves to the Lord let us permit Him to bring it to pass, let us stop our complaining and endure hardship, as good as soldiers of Jesus.

3. RAINS BREAD, MANNA: God is considerate. He said, "I will rain bread from heaven for you." All our bread comes from heaven. He who created us, our need for food, created the wheat field and the orchard for our satisfaction. Nature and the earth seem to produce everything but who created the earth, sun, sky, and gave life to the leaf and bud. In God we live and move and have our being, and we should acknowledge Him in all our ways, in our work as well as in our worship. The promise of bread from heaven reveals to us the unlimited resources of God, our Provider. The Israelites couldn't see any wheat fields there in the wilderness, and they thought they must starve. All humanity is so forgetful. God's farm is the entire universe and He can reap where and when He pleases. Our predicament may be a test of our faith and if we trust God sincerely He will deliver us from our situation.

4. HELP OURSELVES: "The people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day." God is willing to feed us, but we must do our part and not appear helpless or useless. Our entire vast system of industry proves that we are God's partners in feeding the entire world. He created the soil, we plough it; He created the small seed, we plant it; He gives the rain, sunshine and causes it to grow, we harvest it. If we do not perform our part, He goes begging. "If any man will not work, neither let him eat." 2 Thess. 3:10. When they gathered more than a day's portion of surplus spoils with the exception of on Saturday God commanded them to pick up a sufficient supply for both Saturday and Sunday. We are taught to pray for our daily bread and if we try to gather too much it often spoils and most always spoils us.

5. SABBATH'S PROVISIONS: Thus the day of rest, the Sabbath, was kept in the wilderness, by the people gathering enough to do them over the seventh day of the week. Even a locomotive must have its rest. Man can do much more work in a year by working six days a week than he can if he puts in seven days. Not only do we need that day of rest for our bodies, but also for the meditation and worship that it provides for our enjoyment. Man cannot live by bread alone but rather from the words that proceed from the mouth of God, which all point to Jesus Christ.

6. GOD FULFILLS A PROMISE: "At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am Jehovah your God. God supplied the food. At even the quails did appear and in the morning the ground was covered with a strange substance and they learned that it was the manna, bread, that God had supplied according to His word. This manna points to heavenly manna. "Your fathers," said Jesus, "ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died. I am the living bread that came down out of heaven if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever." John 6:49, 51.

7. FORTY YEARS: "And the children of Israel did eat manna for forty years, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan." God kept His promise to provide for them to the end. We come to our wit's ends but God feeds the worlds millions and had enough and to spare. All God's resources are pledged to our sustenance and care until we reach that heavenly Canaan.

RADIO RELIGIOUS PROGRAMS ARE FILLING CHURCHES

Radio religious programs are filling the churches rather than emptying them. This is the trend indicated by a survey of sacred broadcasting just made.

Fourteen of these 103 stations are owned or operated by some church or religious body. The rest simply includes these features along with secular programs, because they feel their audience wants and appreciates them. Sunday is the day that eighty-six of these stations send out their sacred programs, while twenty-two are on week days. The week day programs consist of sacred music or instructional address. A number of brief services are held every morning somewhere between 7 and 8 o'clock. Actual church services are broadcast in eighty-six instances while in twenty-two cases the religious faith program is prepared especially for the radio and is sent out direct from the studio. Forty stations report definite co-operation from the minister, none report antagonism, while the rest did not mention this angle of the situation. One or two replies told of resentment and jealousy on the part of the local clergymen who were not broadcasting, because their congregations were apt to stay at home.

BIBLE STORY

Now when the other great lord, the chief baker, heard how well his comrade sped with the interpretation of his dream, he also plucked up heart, and said: "In my dream, I had three baskets on my head, and the uppermost one was filled with all kinds of dainties for the King's table. And, behold, the birds came and ate them all out of the basket on my head." Then I think Joseph turned his face away, and spoke slowly and reluctantly. For this was what he had to say: "Again the three baskets are three days. In three days Pharaoh shall cause you to be hanged, and the birds shall eat your flesh from off your bones."

Even as Joseph had said, so it came to pass. For in three days the King's birthday came round, and there was a great feast in the palace. Then, as he feasted, the King remembered his two courtiers in prison. On the chief butler he had compassion and gave him back his place again, so that he gave the cup to the royal hand as of old. But the chief baker found no mercy; he was hanged, even as Joseph had forewarned him. Nevertheless, in his joy of getting his honours back again, the chief butler forgot all about the young Hebrew who had foretold his good fortune, and Joseph was still left in prison.

For two years more he lay there, indeed, what between his service in Potiphar's house and the time of his imprisonment, he had now come to be a man in the prime and strength of life. And then it so happened that one night the King also dreamed a dream. In his dream he stood by the great river Nile, which made Egypt in the beginning, and keeps it ever fruitful. And, as he looked down the bank, behold, seven cattle, sleek and fat, came up out of the stream, and fell to grazing in the meadow. Then the King looked again, and lo! seven other cattle came up on the bank, as the first seven had done; but these were lean and starved. They came beside the others, and even as Pharaoh looked on them, behold the seven starved beasts devoured the seven well fed ones. Yet none could tell that they were fatter for what they had eaten, so lean and hungry they still appeared. So the King awoke, and the day passed.

XENIAN TO COMPETE WITH SHARP SHOTS IN CLINTON COUNTY

The Wilmington Rifle Club, through Secretary M. L. Bonta, and on behalf of the riflemen of Clinton County, has accepted the challenge of Perry Swindler, Xenia, former crack army marksman, to meet him in a small boys rifle match, it is announced.

The match will take place Sunday, August 8, on the Wilmington club's range at Rosedale Park on the Xenia Pike, two and one-half miles from Wilmington. The club, on that date, is holding a small boys rifle match which will have entrants from McCook Field, Columbus Business Men's Columbus Rifle, National Cash Register, King's Mills, Hillsboro and Wilmington Rifle Clubs. The ranges to be fired are fifty and 100 yards.

Swindler recently established himself as the best shot in this city, defeating two challengers in a special match. He also hopes to organize a rifle team here to compete with clubs of other cities.

Swindler won medals for expert pistol and rifle marksmanship while with the Army of Occupation in Germany following the World War when he qualified as a crack shot in long range shooting, rapid fire and pistol fire.

CANDIDATES SPEAK BRIEFLY THURSDAY BEFORE FAIR CROWD

Continuing their swing over Ohio in an effort to meet as many voters as possible, Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Harry S. Day, state treasurer, candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, spent several hours Thursday afternoon at the Greene County Fair.

Mr. Day, introduced by Starter Beaulieu, made a short address from the judge's stand in which he complimented the local fair and stressed its educational as well as social advantages.

Mr. Cooper made a longer speech from a truck drawn up on the track in front of the grand stand. He was introduced by Horace Ankney, Beaver Creek Twp., farmer, and former state dairy and food commissioner.

Mr. Cooper, who for the past ten years has served as president of the Ohio Fair Managers' Association, declared in his address that "people of Greene County may feel justly proud of their fair which is one of the best in Ohio."

Cooper declared the problem of the farmer is everybody's problem since the raising of food stuffs affects every fireside.

Both candidates were met upon their arrival here by delegations of Greene County citizens and each spent the greater part of the afternoon, mingling with the fair crowd, meeting voters and Republican leaders.

"Pig Woman" Questioned

Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills murder case, was photographed questioning Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," following which he announced he would ask for four murder indictments.

EIGHTY ABSENT VOTES ARE CAST

With the August 10 primary but three days distant, eighty votes have already been cast by Greene County citizens, who expect to be away from the city election day and do not wish to surrender their right of franchise.

These votes have been cast under the absent voter's ballot system at the Clerk of Court's office in the Court House.

Earl Short, clerk of the board of elections, announces the clerk's office will remain open until Saturday at midnight for accommodation of voters. Absent ballots will be available until that hour.

The absent ballot vote this year was slow at first but in recent days many votes are being cast and a normal vote is expected by Mr. Short.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia leaps of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together, while she will be with her beloved Landis.

Landis, finding himself alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. Some hours later that evening, Rosilyn who is bewildered to find herself spending the evening in the company of Rupert Briscoe, sees her husband dancing with Lydia—in his eyes a look of rapture. She believes he has seen her but is too rude—or ashamed—to speak. Briscoe asks her to go on to a night-club, and in a mood of recklessness she consents.

In Paris Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a plan. These two arrange to come to New York where Marietta is to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Long after Rosilyn's return home Lydia, by a clever ruse persuades Landis to take her for a taxi ride to Jersey. There in the early dawn speeding through the country side his old infatuation asserts itself and he gathers the girl in his arms.

Landis returns from Jersey leaves Lydia and upon finding his wife's door locked decides to put up at his club. Early the next morning he receives a phone call from Lydia.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Interference
"Good morning, my dear child! Not up yet? And where is Landis?" In the gold and ivory bedroom where Rosilyn was still reclining, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, stooped to implant a kiss upon her daughter-in-law's smooth cheek.

The girl sat up in bed, her hair tumbled on her shoulders, and her eyes blinking at the newcomer. "I—didn't know the time. We were very late last night."

"Aha! Gay honeymooners! I simply couldn't make out hear when I phoned from down below. Is Landis still slumbering?"

"I don't know. I suppose he's in his room."

With determined tread, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, crossed the sitting room towards the other bedroom door. In the days of her own honeymoon, there had been no question of this "separate" idea.

But of course the world had changed since then, and one must march with the times. She flung the door of the other apartment open, and perceived an empty bed, the coverlet neatly folded, and the sleeping-suit laid out as though in anticipation of its owner's advent. Gracious! That meant, without a doubt, that Landis had been out all night!

She hesitated, then returned to Landis' wife.

"You said you were both very late last night. At what hour did Landis return, my dear?"

Rosilyn busied herself with a silken wrap about her shoulders, fastening it carefully before she said:

"Oh, I came back a little before he did. I can't stand too much gaiety, you know."

"And didn't he come with you?"

The girl evaded the older woman's glance.

"A friend brought me back to the hotel. Landis must have followed soon after."

"Odd! His bed hasn't been slept in."

Rosilyn gave no sign, though her heart beat painfully.

"We were all very late, and I wouldn't be surprised if he'd lain on the couch in the sitting-room for a bit, and then dressed and gone round to his club, or something."

Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, seated herself on a high-backed chair. "You're picking up the wails of the modern set quicker than I thought you would!"

"And do you blame me?" Rosilyn smiled at her mother-in-law. She would keep her flags flying. This naughty lady should never find out what she suffered.

"D'you mind if I telephone for coffee? And will you have some with me?"

The 'grande dame' graciously consented.

While Rosilyn did the telephoning, she took a long look at the girl. Yes—in the clear morning light, with not even a 'suspicion' of powder on her face, and her dark hair tumbled on her shoulders—she looked surprisingly attractive, and absurdly young.

And Landis was already back to his old gay ways!

She ought to give the child a hint.

When the waiter had brought the coffee, and the pair were sipping the hot liquid, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, said, in a confidential tone:

"You know my dear, I loathe the idea of the old-time, interfering mother-in-law—but if I were you, much as I love you, Landis, I shouldn't give him too much rope."

The bride's cup was suspended for a moment in mid-air as she commented:

"Why?"

The older woman gave a tiny artificial laugh. How naive was this Rosilyn! Had she no common-sense at all?

"He's a good-looking youngster, and women have always spoiled him. Even if he is married, there's a type, you know, to whom his marriage wouldn't make a teeny bit of difference. They'd pursue him, just the same."

Her listener's beautiful eyes widened. They were dark-fringed, and exquisitely expressive.

"In that case, isn't it rather up to Landis? It wouldn't have anything to do with me?"

The other's firm lips twisted in a rather crooked smile.

"You're even more 'advanced' than I thought, it seems. But I can assure you the general idea would be that it rather had to do with you!"

Rosilyn sipped her coffee faintly.

Itching stopped after first application

Media, Pa., June 26—"I wonder if you realize how valuable Resinol Salve is as a cure for Ivy Poisoning. We have used it for three members of our household this summer. After the first application the itching sensation passes away and simply does not return." (Signed) Mrs. W. G. McNeese, Providence Rd. at Fifth St.

Resinol Ointment is also invaluable for the quick relief of sunburn, insect stings, bites, itching rashes, chafing, etc. A bath with Resinol Soap and tepid water is most refreshing and invigorating at the close of a hot, dusty day.

ily, sitting up in bed in childish fashion.

"When you came here this morning, had you anything in particular you wished to tell me? Because, as a matter of fact—" she looked her vis-a-vis directly in the eyes—"I would rather not discuss Landis—even with you."

This was a spirit for which Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, was totally unprepared. She had never dreamt the little country girl had it in her to take a stand like that, and in her inmost heart a spark of admiration for her daughter-in-law sprang into being. A foeman worthy of her steel was something the good lady was totally unprepared for.

There was a pregnant pause. And then, setting down her coffee-cup, the older woman said, brusquely but sincerely:

"You'll do, Rosilyn! You'll find your feet among our set! When I spoke of not giving Landis too much rope, I didn't mean that he would necessarily hang himself! I only wanted to convey a hint that the young men with whom he has mixed are not demigods. But, with the right woman's influence Landis could become something rather fine."

Tomorrow: Rosilyn Prepares.

FOSSIL REMAINS OF GIANT KANGAROOS FOUND IN AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, July 31.—Fossil remains of giant kangaroos, which on being set up are computed to have been twelve feet in height, have been discovered in limestone caves in the southwestern part of Victoria.

A still more interesting discovery in the same caves was of a flint implement shaped rudely by hands that were stilled many thousands of years ago.

The flint has been examined by competent Melbourne archaeologists and other scientists, who believe that it is at least 15,000 years old. They are almost certain that the giant kangaroos and the wielder of the flint implement were contemporary. The flint fits fairly well the description of the Chellean type of instrument, the oldest known implements that are certainly the work of man. It is held not to be the work of even the oldest of Australia's present race of aborigines.

The discovery of the prehistoric skull at Cohuna, a few months ago, this latest discovery, and other facts gleaned by geologists and philologists, all point to the minds of scientists, to one general conclusion—that Australia shares in the childhood of man. A wave of enthusiasm is beginning to sweep over students to investigate whether this country, and not Asia, as is generally accepted, is the cradle of man.

John Baughn For Sheriff

(From Greene County Journal, Jamestown)

The Greene County Journal is glad to say a good word, unsolicited, for the candidacy of John Baughn, of Jamestown, for Sheriff of the county.

It has been the custom in Greene County, and other counties for that matter, to move up the Deputy Sheriff to the Sheriff's position if he proves capable and industrious.

That John Baughn has proven a capable Deputy Sheriff need not be said here. Everyone knows he has made good. He has been zealous in the discharge of his duties, has been courteous in their performance and has left nothing undone to see that the county's interests, insofar as his part of the work is concerned, have been taken care of.

This paper has known John Baughn a great many years. For some years he was connected with it, in an important capacity, and it may be said that we regretted that he decided to leave newspaper work and become Deputy Sheriff. That is perhaps the best testimonial we could give him—that he would always have a place on the Journal.

There is no reason to believe that John Baughn will make other than a capable, efficient, hard-working Sheriff of Greene County and there is little doubt that the Republicans will name him for that office next Tuesday, as they should, we believe. He is not only deserving of the office, but capable of filling it properly and satisfactorily.

We commend him to the voters of Greene County.

DEMAND ACTION OF NATION IN MEXICAN RELIGIOUS DISPUTE

Charge Mexico Is Russianized At Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. Asserting that Mexican officials had "insulted, degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government," the supreme council, Knights of Columbus, today called on President Coolidge and the state department to "put an end to this ignominious contempt" that had been shown by President Calles "for Americans' appeal."

Demand was made for protection of American citizens and for their treatment with the same consideration and respect that is shown to Mexicans in this country.

The American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations were urged to co-operate to safeguard "not only American rights, but the hard-won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to despotic authority."

The convention authorized the supreme board of directors to assess the membership of the organization $1,000,000 for a campaign of education, "to the end that the politics of Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of American life and the ideals of liberty of conscience and democratic freedom may extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande."

The religious situation in Mexico as it affects the Catholic church was considered one of the most important questions before the convention since it convened last Monday. A special committee, appointed to consider the matter, reported today and its report was unanimously adopted.

After protesting against the policy of President Calles "on his recent despotic use of the armed forces of his military regime in oppressing the vast majority of the people of Mexico, who are struggling to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience," the statement said:

"We warn our fellow American citizens that they cannot endure at their very doorstep, with impunity, the Russianizing of Mexico. The soviet philosophy controls the military powers of Mexico. The family to them is a myth and marriage a degradation. They have robbed it of its sanctity. Their conception of God is contempt for all religions."

After declaring that civil and religious freedom are suppressed in Mexico, the statement continues:

"All this system in Mexico has been created under American auspices, sustained by American executive authority which, in the first place, while refusing to recognize Lenin and Trotsky, have by executive order of recognition, accepted Calles and Obregon, who are the enthusiastic supporters of the bolshevik concept of government."

THISTLEDOWN RACE PROGRAM HALTED

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Horse racing at Thistledown track near here, scheduled to continue until Aug. 14, was called off today following issuance of an injunction by Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court to stop all forms of gambling.

At the same time Attorney General C. C. Crabbe announced in Columbus that the injunction sets a precedent by which gambling will be stopped at every other track in the state. Cancellation of other scheduled meets was considered possible in view of the announcement.

NATIVES BURNED TO DEATH IN AFRICA

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 6.—Flames swept an area approximately five miles square today at Illovo, near Durban, trapping thirteen natives who were burned to death. Several planters were ruined by the destruction of 2,000 acres of sugar cane.

SCALDED BY ALKALI

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 6.—Henry Rowland, 42, millwright, was severely scalded when he jumped into a tank of alkali here today. His clothing caught fire from a gasoline torch and looking around for some way to extinguish the flames, he jumped into the vat thinking it was water. His condition is serious.

FORMER COMMANDER OF CAMP SHERMAN IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

General Glenn Is Dead
At Mentor—Was Retired

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Brigadier General Edwin Forbes Glenn, 69, retired, former commander of Camp Sherman, Columbus, and war commander of Camp Sherman, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James E. Garfield, Mentor, Ohio. Death was due to paralysis.

General Glenn served forty-six years in the army. He was born in Greensboro, N. C., and was graduated from West Point in 1877.

He held honorary degrees from Ohio University, Kenyon College, DePauw University, Union College and the University of Vermont.

General Glenn commanded exploring and relief expeditions in Alaska in 1898 and later was in the department of the judge advocate general. In 1905 he was commander of the Columbus barracks until 1907. He organized Camp Sherman and trained the 83rd division there. When it moved to France, General Glenn also went overseas as an observer on various fronts.

PINCHOT MAY MAKE FIGHT FOR SENATE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 6.—Political circles here today were astir following the statement of Governor Gifford Pinchot that he would announce his decision on whether he would be an independent candidate for the Senate within four weeks.

The statement of the governor made following his inspection of the state troops at Mt. Gretna was the first definite statement made by the chief executive on his political plan since the primary.

While Pinchot refused to make a definite statement regarding his views on an independent race, persons who heard the statement were inclined to believe that the governor intends to make the campaign against William S. Vare, Republican, and William B. Wilson, Democrat.

BURNS TO DEATH

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Playing near a fire in the rear of her home, resulted in the death of Rae Reuben, 6, today when she died from her burns. The child pulled a piece of blazing paper from the fire which ignited her dress.

REPORT DISSENSION IN RANKS OF HALL-MILLS MURDER PROBE

Special Prosecutor Says Order for Warrants Ignored
—State Police Say Order Not Received
By Them

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 6.—A rift today toward that same lack of harmony which four years ago sent the first investigation of the Hall-Mills murder into blind alleys, has been indicated by Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor.

His order to the state police to make out warrants for the arrest of two persons, had not been followed, he said. At state troopers' headquarters it was held that such an order had not been received.

This was the first real indication of friction in the present probe. Simpson had wanted the arrests of Ralph Goralline, vestryman, and member of the church choir in the Rev. Edward W. Hall's church and Mrs. Nellie Russell, negro, who lives near the murder scene.

Mrs. Minna Clark, another member of the choir in which Mrs. Mills once sang, is sought by Simpson for questioning. The state police have been ordered to search for her.

Woman was the "cause of another slight squabble between the special prosecutor and the state police. Simpson had wanted her arrested as a "material witness." Captain Lamb of the state constabulary said that Simpson had referred to her as a "state's witness."

She had stayed up all night waiting to be arrested. An attempt was made to break into the home of the late Azariah Beekman, former prosecutor of Somerset County, at Bound Brook last night by persons presumably in search of official papers believed to have been retained by the former prosecutor.

DRY OFFICERS WILL PROBE DIVERTING OF LEGAL WHISKEY

Round-up Begun In New York And Sioux
City

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Under cover, agents of the federal prohibition unit have been ordered to round up all druggists and physicians suspected of diverting medicinal whiskey into bootleg channels.

New York City and Sioux City, Iowa, agents already have begun clean ups in their districts.

The sleuths have been told to stop prescription bootlegging and the selling of "out" medicinal whiskey by drug stores. Investigations by government detectives showed many millions of gallons of whiskey leaking through these channels.

Samples of liquor handled by druggists are being taken by special prohibition agents assigned to this work.

The samples will be analyzed by government chemists and druggists found selling "out" whiskey on prescription will lose their licenses to deal in medicinal liquors.

The policy of the prohibition unit is to assure pure and unadulterated liquor for medicinal needs and at the same time prevent the genuine pre-Valstead product from reaching the bootleg market.

OFFICER KILLED IN DUEL WITH ALLEGED RUM RUNNING CROWD

Shot When Deputies
Surround Cache Of Liquor

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 6.—Sheriff Sam Dunfee of Belmont County, died in a hospital here early today as a result of a fight with an alleged rum runner.

The alleged bootlegger who has not been identified was seriously wounded in the fight and Albert Dellotti, believed to be his companion, was under arrest in the county jail in connection with the shooting.

Sheriff Dunfee, Chief Deputy J. M. Fursee and five special deputies, advised that an effort was being made to remove a store of liquor last night, surrounded the cache.

An automobile arrived after midnight and began loading the liquor.

Dunfee walked from his hiding place directly toward the automobile. His deputies were scattered on all sides. As the sheriff approached the driver of the automobile opened fire and felled Dunfee with a bullet in the right lung. The second man made a dash for the woods and was captured. The driver of the automobile started to escape but Special Deputy Harry Bell opened fire and three bullets struck the driver. He was brought to the hospital here and automobile and seventeen cases of liquor were confiscated.

NO PLACE TO SLEEP SO GIRL HIDES IN STORE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Irene Kovath, just 15 years old, was homeless, friendless and penniless. She didn't mind going without food so much Wednesday but she was worried about where to find a place to sleep.

She debated the problem as she was elbowed and shoved by the late rush of shoppers in the May Department store.

Then a solution presented itself. As the store was closing she slipped under a counter, laid down on a stock of remnants and enjoyed an untroubled sleep.

Just in time to slip out unnoticed with the first of the early shoppers.

Last night she faced the same problem and met it in the same way, but James Bell, night watchman was attracted by her deep breathing. Police arrived and found Irene, now awake and sobbing. She told her story and went to bed.

Frank Herling, who came to arrest her instead took her to a restaurant where she ate her fill and then to a detention home where she will be cared for until a suitable home is found for her.

MURDER HINTED IN DEATH OF CHILD

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6.—Discovery of the body of Joe Meli, ten, at a New York central grade crossing here by Dave, 5-year-old brother of Joe, led police today to seek a possible murder.

John Barker, 17, was arrested and questioned but later was released. The body was identified by Dave Meli.

The boy had apparently been struck by the train but police believe he was pushed onto the track. His skull was found fractured.

INTEREST IN PRIMARY MINUTE DRIVES ARE BEING MADE BY CANDIDATES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—With the state primary but four days away the host of candidates seeking favor today were busily completing their campaigns.

Virtually all candidates will bring to a close today or tomorrow, their appeals to the voters, either with speeches or open letters and charges against opponents.

Politicians and political observers in most instances were wholly unwilling to predict the outcome of the primary. Much depends they say on the total vote—if there is a large ballot the chances of

GUARDSMEN ON DUTY AFTER CANTON THREATS

Special Guard at Home of Official Fires At Auto—
Search For McDermott Broadened—Descriptions Sent Out

CANTON, O., Aug. 6.—National guardsmen resumed duty here today, under Col. C. F. Bleum, as threats of violence and civic unrest resulting from the assassination of Don R. Mellett, newspaper publisher, continued.

The home of Herman R. Witter, former mayor, now state director of public relations, was guarded throughout the night at the order of Gov. Donahey. Witter, who conducted a personal investigation of the Mellett murder reported that his house was to be dynamited and a strange man prowling the neighborhood at night.

A guard at the home of County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock fired at a fleeing automobile today. He was knocked to the street when he attempted to board the car after it had cruised back and forth in front of the house a number of times.

Joseph Roach, Chicago special prosecutor assisting Acting Chief of Police Earl H. Hames, spent most of his day of investigation conferring with authorities.

The hunt for Patrick McDermott believed to hold the key that will solve the murder mystery, appeared to be at a stand still. Movements of a Canton attorney were traced in the belief he may have been in touch with the fugitive. Refusal of Mayor S. M. Swarts to accept the recommendations of a citizens committee for a police shake up was denounced in a statement from the committee. It charged the mayor with refusing unfairly to move for civic harmony.

EVOLUTION DEFEAT INDICATED BY VOTE IN TENNESSEE RACE

Governor Claims Nomination By Small Majority

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6.—Evolution suffered a smashing defeat at the hands of the voters of Tennessee in the primary yesterday.

Governor Austin Peay, seeking re-nomination and Hill McAlister, state treasurer, were running neck and neck, with Dr. John R. Neal, lawyer and liberal who headed the Scopes defense in the Dayton "Monkey trial" trailing far behind. McAlister sponsored Tennessee's law prohibiting evolution in the schools. Peay supported the law enthusiastically.

McAlister had held a slight lead over Peay throughout the night. The governor retired and was up early today when northeastern counties gave him a heavy plurality. Shelby County, in which Memphis is situated and west Tennessee generally apparently were carried by McAlister. Neal's vote was negligible.

Peay's headquarters claimed victory by 6,000.

SWEAR IN LAWYERS

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6.—Law students of northern Ohio who passed the recent state bar examinations will be sworn in tomorrow. Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the state supreme court, will administer the oath to thirty-five.

He has ignored the charges of his opponent, A. P. Sandies of Ohio, a former secretary of agriculture.

The other most interesting contests are for Republican and Democratic nominations for senator. There are ten candidates seeking the Republican nomination. For the Democratic honor, Judge Florence Allen has made a strenuous fight and is backed by several important factions. Her opponent, former Senator Pomeroy, has made only a nominal campaign and his backers are claiming victory.

AMERICAN SWIMMER STARTS ATTEMPT ON FRENCH COAST LINE

Shifting Wind May Be
Handicap—Girl Optimistic

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 6.—Making good progress and swimming fast Miss Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimmer was today ploughing across the waters of the English channel toward Dover.

The skies were somewhat overcast, however, and a wind had blown up after she entered the water at 7:09 a. m. under weather conditions which had seemed better calculated for her second attempt to swim the channel.

As the wind swung around to the southwest and the sea became more agitated Miss Ederle began to appear annoyed at the shifting weather. When the wind changed she was five and a half miles from the French coast.

As the escort tug Alsace followed the girl swimmer, a French boat, the Nicoloa Shidling, exchanged salutes with the escort vessel, the French crew cheering Miss Ederle.

At 9:40 a launch from Dover, England came alongside the Alsace drawing up under her quarter. An hour later it left for Dover and the tug La Morino, carrying a journalist, came alongside the swimmer's escort tug.

On advice of her trainer, Bill Burgess, the second man to swim the channel, Miss Ederle had retired early last night. Burgess expressed the opinion that she was in fine condition and was confident she would be the first woman to swim the channel.

She arrived at the shore in a taxicab this morning. The air was chilly but the young swimmer did not seem to notice the cool of the day as she disappeared into a garage for her final greasing.

Miss Ederle was rubbed with a mixture of vasoline and lanoline. Instead of a one piece bathing suit she wore slips, with the emblem of the Women's Swimming Association and a small American flag on the chest.

Adjusting heavy goggles as she came out of the garage, Miss Ederle strolled confidently to the water.

Spectators and camera men awaited her there and they exchanged greetings.

She appeared to be in the best of spirits, joking about the grease which covered her in layers.

"I'll make it this time," she predicted.

A hundred watchers had gathered on the beach. Much laughter came from the crowd as a dog jumped from the deck of the tug into the water and swam after his master who was in the rowboat.

Burgess kissed Miss Ederle on the cheek as she started to enter the water. Cries of farewell and shouted good wishes came from the crowd as Miss Ederle waded out, walking until the water was up to her neck. Then she began swimming, with Burgess accompanying her. The tug moved on with the swimmers and the rowboat, manned by two oarsmen to help up its long course. An American and a French flag flew from the small craft.

THREE MEN KILLED IN PITCHED BATTLE

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6.—Three men were dead today as a result of a pitched battle ten feet in which federal prohibition agents participated.

The dry agents, headed by C. W. Standan, of Tampa, were driving toward Miami in the Everglades country near Homestead after several liquor raids when an automobile drew alongside their two cars. Its occupants opened fire which the dry agents returned with riot guns.

After a brisk exchange of shots the attackers stopped. H. P. Merritt, former constable removed from his post three weeks ago, Arthur Brunson and Clyde Parrish were found dead in the machine.

NEGRO KILLED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6.—Homer Jones, 25, negro, was killed and Sam Pittz, 25, negro, suffered a broken arm and internal injuries when their automobile collided with another car on the National Highway near here today.

Jones body was hurled from his car in front of a truck. Both the truck and the other auto proceeded on their way before they could be identified.

MEASLES RAGE

TIFFIN, O., Aug. 6.—Measles which reached epidemic virulence at the National Orphan Home of the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, two weeks ago, today were on the decrease although there were 133 cases at the home now, reports to the health board said.

Nick Franovich to whom she was engaged to be married in a week, rushed to her door when he heard the revolver shot, but found it securely bolted.

Police forced their way into the room and found the girl's body. No reason for the act was given. Authorities held Franovich on the theory that jealousy prompted the girl's act.

GIRL SUICIDES AS FIANCE AWITS HER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 6.—While her fiance waited down stairs, Mildred Markovich, 19, locked herself in her room and ended her life.

Here Is List Of Candidates For State And County Offices On Both Tickets

Greene County voters must make their selection of candidates from 105 names at the primaries next Tuesday.

Republicans will pick their choice from seventy-seven names on the party ballots, including big fields for all state offices, except chief justice of the supreme court and some of the county offices.

In addition voters will pick a central committee candidate from their precincts. Democratic ballots contain the names of thirty candidates, the list being shortened by failure of candidates to seek nomination for county offices. They must also pick central committee men.

Race for governor on the Republican ticket draws the biggest field, with twelve candidates while eleven seeking the office of lieutenant governor and eight each for U. S. senator and treasurer of state. Five Democrats want to be lieutenant governor and four each are running for the nomination for governor, secretary of state and attorney general.

Here's the way candidates line-up on the Republican ticket:

NEWSPAPER PROGRESS SHOWN BY VALUATION WHEN PAPERS SOLD

The early editor bought a barrel of type, a small hand-press, a small quantity of newsprint and ink and began the precarious occupation of publishing a newspaper.

Last winter the Chicago Daily News, a modern, metropolitan daily, was sold to Walter A. Strong and the staff of the paper for $13,671,704.30, thereby setting a high water mark for all time for the value of newspaper properties the world over.

The difference between the price brought by the News and the probable monetary value of the equipment and stock that went into the pioneer newspaper, represents the measure of achievement and progress in the last century, not only in the newspaper field but in America.

Sayre's Drug Store

August a Healthy Month!
The reason however is that MOST of us exercise more than usual and are outdoors more. Keeps your liver up on its toes! If you're NOT getting these liver gymnastics you're going to lead a tuff life. A box of Liver Salts at 25c is a remedy we advise you to keep handy.

Take a Kidney Frinistance
Odd organ the Kidney—never realize its outta whack until your back feels like a mule kicked you! Then you dash into a doctor or in HERE and many times you've let your trouble get too tite a grip on you for US to handle quickly. That's why we suggest Rexall Kidney Pills as an occasional treatment to PREVENT such troubles.

How Does He Do It?
You all know the chap who can eat "anything he wants." Midnight lunches, heavy dinners leave him happy, smiling and HEALTHY! If you investigate you'll find he's an occasional buyer of our Stomach Remedy which keeps him fit and efficient all the time.

Have You Seen All You Want To?
In that case what happens to your eyes won't cause you any sleepless nights! But Wilson Goggles we believe add many a comfort, many a day of brightness to your eyes and don't forget you've only GOT the two of 'em to last a life time!

First one is a Raise in Salary, the SECOND is More Wages for me and the THIRD is More Money in my pay envelope each week. And he don't need no new store to do THAT either! Doc's wasting a lotta energy, what I mean.

I Know Of No Better Way!
Some folks when they feel a yearn to express their civic pride and patriotism have the splendid ability to "get up in meeting" and shoot off verbal fireworks that delight, amaze and convince! I wish I could DO just that—but I can't!

For some time I've felt a yearn of this sort and accompanying it was a feeling that I owed this community a great big gesture of appreciation of some sort. Boiling down these tremors and studying the matter carefully I came to the conclusion that NO BETTER gesture could be made than to give to Xenia the BEST DRUG STORE, the most COMFORTABLE drug store in southwestern Ohio!

And THIS I am DOING!
I'm torn up a bit as you've probably noticed but hold tite for a few days and you'll see a brand smack dab new store rise grandly from the smashed and broken timbers of the old one!

Can YOU figure a BETTER way for me to show appreciation to you folks for your many years of confidence in me? A BETTER way to prove my complete confidence in Greene County and Xenia?

Why Make Faces At Rudolf?
Just because he looks like he's just trotted out of a band box is no reason to get sore at him is it? A 50c jar of Hair Fix will make YOUR hair just as slick looking as his and a tube of Klenzo Paste makes your teeth glisten just as wickedly. Why make faces?

A Clean Pure Back!
It's a cinch to scrub your chest, your hands and both knee caps but it's a real contortion to polish your backbone! That's why a wise old muscle-bound chap invented these bath brushes with a curved handle. Sell for $1.25 each and are worth $2400 in contentment. Invest.

Finest We've Ever Seen!
It only goes to show what competition does! Two years ago you'd paid twice or three times as much for stationery equal to this Hall Craft we're able to sell for 60c a box! We bought in big quantity this time so's to give you the lowest possible price.

the recent purchase of the Kansas City Star by Irwin R. Kitchwood, its editor, and his associates, for $11,000,000, the second highest price ever paid for a newspaper. By this deal the sale of the Pittsburgh Press by Oliver S. Hershman in 1923 to the Scripps-Howard Newspapers for $9,000,000 is pushed into third place. For nearly three years it held the high mark.

Sales of newspapers, partially due to the frequent consolidation moves of recent years, have served to fix a valuation standard on paper properties. The Pittsburgh Dispatch and the Pittsburgh Leader were sold by Charles A. Rook and Alexander P. Moore, respectively, to the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, Chronicle-Telegraph, Post, Sun and Press collectively in 1922 for more than $2,000,000.

The New York Sun and the Evening Sun were sold by William C. Rieck to Frank A. Munsey, in 1916, for $3,000,000. The New York Herald and Paris Herald were sold to Munsey from the estate of James Gordon Bennett in 1920 for $4,000,000. Both were sold by Munsey in 1924 to the New York Tribune for $5,000,000.

Other newspaper sales of interest include: New York Evening Mail to Frank Munsey in 1924 by Henry L. Stoddard and others for $2,000,000.

New York Press to Frank Munsey in 1912 by Henry L. Elstein and others, $2,500,000.

New York Globe to Frank Munsey in 1923 by Arthur T. Walker, $2,000,000.

Worcester Telegram and Gazette to George Booth and associates in 1925 by Theodore T. Ellis, $2,000,000.

Philadelphia North American to Cyrus H. K. Curtis in 1925 by the estate of Thomas B. Wannamaker for $1,700,000.

Tampa Tribune to a syndicate of local business men in 1925 by W. F. Stovall for $1,250,000.

Detroit Journal to the Detroit News in 1922 by H. S. Talmadge and associates, $1,000,000.

San Francisco Bulletin to C. S. Stanton and associates in 1924 by R. A. Crothers for $1,000,000.

Syracuse Journal to W. R. Hearst in 1925 by H. D. Burrill for $1,000,000.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer to W. R. Hearst in 1922 by John H. Perry for $1,000,000.

The frequent sales of newspapers is an evidence of the constant shifting of properties into the hands of new owners with the eventual clearing of the field down to one newspaper.

Where formerly two, three or even four newspapers fought for existence, one now serves the field. It is because of this favorable condition that one is able to do well what all of them did poorly under the old competition.

OSBORN
Beginning Thursday, August 5, at 8:00 P. M., and continuing for eight consecutive Thursdays, the Cement City Commercial Club of Osborn will offer a fine band concert rendered by the Shiloh Band of Dayton under the direction of Mr. W. L. Whitacre and the management of Mr. H. E. Huckens composed of about twenty-six pieces. This band has excellent players in it, several of whom have been members of bands of international repute.

A splendid new brick band stand has been erected in the exact center of town for the purpose. A pamphlet containing the current program of the band concerts will be distributed weekly.

John Kendig who is employed at the N. C. R. is enjoying a two weeks vacation.

Mr. R. Coghlan and son Redmond have returned home from a business and pleasure trip to Springfield, Ill.

Mrs. Malcolm Grinnell entertained a group of friends on Sunday in honor of her week-end guest, Miss Cary Timmons of Springfield, O.

TO THE VOTERS OF GREENE COUNTY

We hear so much talk of rotten politics caused by the different factions, rings, etc. What are we doing to correct it? Nothing. Now as the Primary is drawing near and the field is full of candidates, it is time for us to investigate and pick our candidate that we know will help in a measure at least to correct these aforesaid evils.

I am well acquainted with Jos. T. Hutchison, candidate for the office of Greene County Treasurer and have known him for many years. He was born and raised in this county and I dare say if you look the county over you could not find a more capable or efficient man to fill the office than Mr. Hutchison.

He is a man of strictly business principles using the strictest economy at all times which should appeal to all taxpayers.

"Joe" as he prefers to be called does not belong to any political faction or ring nor will he be dominated over by and such Bosses, as he believes in a square deal.

He owns and operates a farm and has been President of the Xenia Farmers' Exchange Co., since its organization which did over $300,000 worth of business last year and I know he is well qualified for the office.

It will be impossible for him to see all the voters, never-the-less you will make a mistake if you do not vote for Jos. T. Hutchison for County Treasurer at the coming primary.

I appeal to all voters who want clean politics, service and lower taxes to vote for "Joe" as he says economy begins at home. Let's start to clean house now and every voter go to the polls, Aug. 10th, and vote for Jos. T. Hutchison for County Treasurer.

MARKSMEN TO MEET IN SECOND SHOOT

Perry Swindler, Walter Jones and Peter Shagin, the latter crack shot of the Xenia Police Department, will meet in a second three-cornered small bore rifle competition between 4 and 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Shawnee Park.

Swindler defeated both of his competitors in a previous shoot and has been challenged again by both Jones and Shagin.

Both marksmen have been anxious for another crack at Swindler's mark of 479 out of a possible 500 points at distances of twenty-five, fifty, seventy-five and 100 yards. The ranges will be the same Saturday.

In the event Shagin is unable to participate, Jones will shoot against Swindler's best record.

DAYTON RIVERDALE CLUB WINS QUOT TOURNAMENT AT FAIR

Final standing:

	Won	Lost
Riverdale	10	2
Shrine	6	6
Xenia	2	10

Continuing, although in a lesser measure, its success of opening day, the Riverdale, Dayton, two-man team of Bodiker and Ching Lowery won the annual inter-city quito tournament of the Greene County Fair Thursday, winding up with ten victories and the loss of only two games.

Dayton Shriners, represented Thursday by Pickrel and Taylor, including a two out of three victory over Riverdale, to finish in second place with six games won.

	Won	Lost
Xenia (0)	14	7
J. B. Smith	4	3
William Smith	3	3
Xenia (0)	11	5
J. B. Smith	6	8
Drennan	6	8
Riverdale (1)	6	8
Bodiker	12	13
Lowery	13	13

Xenia sustained the most crushing defeat of many years of participation in the yearly event, winning only two of twelve games played and dropping to last position. Local team of J. B. Smith, William Smith and Clarence Brennan lost six straight games Thursday after Xenia had won two in six the previous day.

The purse of $25 was distributed in three moneys: first, Riverdale, $12.50; second, Shriners, $7.50; and third, Xenia, $5.

Ching Lowery was the outstanding star of the tournament. He pitched particularly well the final day making eighty-one points for an average of a little better than thirteen per game.

Thursday's results:

	Won	Lost
Riverdale (3)	3	10
Bodiker	18	11
C. Lowery	10	12
Shrine (3)	11	9
Shrine (2)	13	10
Pickrel	8	7
Taylor	8	7

DOCTORS REPORT NO HEAT PROSTRATIONS

Xenians seem to be bearing up well under the extreme hot weather, since no cases of heat prostration have been reported by local doctors. The heat and humidity seem to cause only general lassitude, with no serious results.

No relief was promised until Saturday, when cooler weather with showers was promised. Friday's sun was veiled behind threatening clouds which did not save anyone from the full benefits of the heat.

The little circulation stirring was of the hot, humid sort and gave little or no relief. Crowds at the Greene County Fair were unimpaired by the weather and fair skies smiled on the Fair period, so far.

PROBLEM OF CRIME

A distinguished New York lawyer, Charles A. Boston, in his address before the American Bar Association convention at Denver, gave utterance to a thought which, perhaps, sometimes has forced itself upon the consciousness of every student of the modern crime problem.

Mr. Boston in the course of his remarks said: "While I have no certain solution and no panacea, I do wonder sometimes whether we might not, under the regulation of law, so as to prevent intolerable abuse, utilize and develop a citizen constabulary, properly organized, properly officered, subject to call like a fire department, answerable for misuse of power, but endowed with some of the functions of a vigilance-committee, and as quick in action as the hue and cry is to apprehend if not to try."

As has been said, this thought frequently has been indulged by social students—often has been emphasized during periods of emotional excitement. But the proposition is untenable. It suggests admission of the law's failure to function for the protection and security of society. It repudiates fundamental constitutional guarantees. It is suggestive of a reversion to the law of the jungle. It is anything but democratic, wholly anti-American.

What is needed in the United States is a recodification of the criminal laws, the inexorable enforcement by courts of legal decrees, the alert and honest administration of law by every public servant charged with such duty. When less time, attention and expenditure of impressive sums of money are devoted to the effort to enforce a single statute at the expense of all others it may be possible somewhat to curb the force of the alarming menace of criminal devastation that is cursing this commonwealth.

THE MOTOR CAR FEVER

The average citizen has a faint idea of how the motor car traffic has gripped the nation. But it often takes a set of figures to tell the real story of motor cars, and what they mean to folks in this day and generation.

These figures come from the national touring board of the American Automobile Association, which, in commenting on the fact that the automobile vacationists this year exceed greatly all previous records, has this to say:

"Thirty-six million persons are spending their vacations behind the steering wheels of 9,000,000 automobiles and are spending $3,000,000,000 on camping, hotel, gasoline and other expenses.

"One-third of the nation's population is following the gasoline trail this summer. One-third of the motorists will camp in the open, an average of 33 days each. The other two-thirds spend approximately 10 days each on tour. These persons spend their nights in hotels.

"Each automobile involves an expense of about $10 a day during the touring season, if it belongs to the open-air camping brigade, and approximately three times that much if hotels are patronized.

"Between 22,000,000 and 26,000,000 persons took their outings in automobiles last summer."

No such agency has ever existed, perhaps, that called so great a number of people always into the great open spaces. So when one thinks of the bettered health of the present day, the credit that should be given to the motor car can hardly be overlooked.

A NEW CROP EVERY DAY

German business and professional men were among those swindled out of large sums by two confidence men claiming possession of a formula for changing salt into gold. Another member of the same band of rogues sold stock in an apparatus for which he claimed the power of drawing great quantities of electricity from the air.

Both of these crooked schemes would have been just as successful in this country or any other. No one nation has a monopoly on gullibility. Confidence games are not less suspicious than the German schemes are finding suckers in every section of the United States every day.

So easy is it to swindle the average human being that state legislatures are finding it advisable to enact special legislation for the protection of those who are not to be trusted with their own money. In several states, bureaus have been created for the sole purpose of scrutinizing stock-selling propositions so there will be no wildcat stocks for the too-credulous to be mulcted by.

Even these extraordinary measures for the protection of the public are not sufficient for the more gullible. Worthless securities banned and branded by the government have been sold on the spacious story that the officials are trying to prevent others from "striking it rich."

Some people prefer to be swindled than to be pestered by the swindler. Others know they haven't a chance, but like to gamble against great odds. But the great body of dupes believe it is "a sure thing" and blame the confidence man when they learn they have been cheated.

CONTRIBUTED RECIPES

Kind Reader Friends have sent me the following recipes for their women to enjoy:
"Salmon Pudding" (recently requested by someone). Mince one can of salmon, saving the can liquor for sauce. To the fish add four tablespoons of melted butter, one-half cup of fine cracker crumbs, a pinch each of salt and pepper, and three well beaten eggs. Turn the mixture into a buttered mold, and set this in a pan of hot water. Cover and steam for one hour, adding more boiling water as the original amount evaporates. Dip the mold in cold water a minute, to loosen contents, then turn out onto a platter. Over the "pudding" pour the following hot Sauce: Heat one cup of sweet milk to the boiling point, and thicken it with one tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Add a teaspoonful of butter, the salmon liquor from the pan, and one egg well beaten. Remove from fire, season to suit individual taste with salt and pepper, and let it sit, covered, before serving. Lemon slices make a good garnish for this dish.—N. P.

Stand in hot water for three minutes. "Spanish Salad: Chop well-diced beef or roast beef in pieces the size of a pea. To this meat add one-half of a can of peas, a little vinegar, one bunch of celery chopped, salt and pepper to suit individual liking, and one cup of any good bottled salad dressing (Mayonnaise). Mix all together, and heap onto crisp lettuce leaves. Put a dab of extra dressing on top and garnish with chopped pickles, if desired, and chopped Chilli peppers if you have them.—Mrs. S. B.
"Upside-Down Cake: Ingredients are: One-fourth pound of brown sugar, one-fourth pound of butter, one-half cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of cold, sweet milk, one cup of flour, one egg, one-half teaspoon of baking powder, one can of sliced pineapple and vanilla to flavor. Put the brown sugar in a cake pan with lumps of one-half the amount of butter. Place pan in hot oven one minute to soften. Now mix cake batter in the usual way—cream sugar and butter, add egg and milk, then flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Flavor with a drop or two of vanilla. Lay pineapple in bottom of cake pan on the brown sugar, pour cake batter over it, and bake in a warm oven, gradually increasing heat till done. Turn out (bottom side up) onto a cake plate, put cherry in center of each piece of pineapple and serve with or without whipped cream.—D. K. B.

The Theatre

The shades of William Shakespeare must be smiling kindly down on the theater world. What with the long run his plays have enjoyed all last season, there comes the authentic report from the Pacific Coast that John Barrymore has been offered ten thousand dollars a week to play the sad, sad Dane. Barrymore has refused.

From Atlantic City comes a report that Ziegfeld, a bit jealous of these modern Hamlets, will do his own classic glorifying of the American Girl in dress clothes. Not an ankle shall be shown, not a lovely bare back. Ziegfeld in dress clothes? Shakespeare went over big in modern dress. But the books, music and lyrics better be good.

The sophistication and ultra-broadmindedness of the European motion picture public are being questioned. And on the other hand, we are continually being told American audiences are the opposite. This legend seems to be exploded when "The Big Parade" aroused a stir of opposition in London. Englishmen in all seriousness declare it glorifies the American doughboy and points to America winning the war. The fine qualities of the film were overlooked in the maze of provincial narrowness.

When Famous Players started to make "The Rough Rider," a country-wide search was instituted for a man who looked like Theodore

SIDELIGHTS ON Greene County History

GREEN ST.

It is said that the love of money is the root of all evil. But it would be hard to get any citizen of the county to admit Green St., in Xenia is an evil, and yet it was a desire on the part of County Commissioners to obtain money for the use of the county, which led to the setting off of part of the public square as a street.

Commissioners first tried to sell a part of the square, and baffled in this direction, they resorted to leasing parts of the square for fifteen year periods.

Commissioners in 1835, needed money, and needed it badly. They had just completed, several years before, a two-story, six-room office building in the square, and in 1835 were in the midst of the erection of a new jail.

They conceived the plan of leasing three separate lots for a period of ninety-nine years, one on the southeast corner of the square, the second abutting the alley on the south side of the jail lot and finally a lot on Detroit St. At that time the county was already leasing to the city, a strip eighty feet wide on the north side of the square for a market house and yard, an engine house, public scales and a public wood yard.

But in order that there might be access to the lots on the east side of the square, commissioners were forced to provide a street or alley along this side—hence came about the street known today as Green St.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. QUEST

THE HOUSE AND THE SPIRIT
I builded me a house,
As safe as man could build it,
With rugs and chairs and portieres
And pretty things I filled it,
And then said I, from year to year
My loved ones should be happy here.

But I was one to roam,
And I was one to wander,
I could not stay with them to play,
Fame called to me off yonder,
And so I left them there alone
To follow wishes of my own.

Thought I they must be glad
With all that I've supplied them,
No joy they miss which makes
for bliss,
There's naught that I've denied them.
But oft when I'd come home from town
I heard them sigh and saw them frown.

Then once they said to me:
"Oh, can't you guess our sorrow?
From rugs and chairs and portieres
No pleasure can we borrow.
'Tis you we need from day to day,
There is no joy with you away."
And so I set it down—
The home that man is keeping.

Today's Talk

THE SERVILITY OF IMITATION

I can excuse about everything in a man who is himself and who doesn't make any boast of it.

I can learn more from such a man merely by just watching him than by listening for hours to him who has tried to pick up everything he could from others and then plaster it to himself as though it were himself.

The fact is that there are very few original thinking and acting men. The world, somehow, won't let them be that way—but if the man is big enough, he acts himself anyway. And then the world just smiles because it can't help it, and both men and women hail this chap as a born genius!

Some great man once said that genius was the capacity for taking great pains. But I am of the opinion that genius is simply being yourself in spite of the world, the flesh and the devil!

I am sure that the most honest people in the world are those who act nearest to what they think is right and do nearest what to them seems the highest expression of themselves.

The servility of imitation breeds a most unwholesome spirit into the world. It makes weaklings of otherwise possibly great men.

The pampered boy nearly always gets a "knockout" in the first round of life's royal fight. But the boy who was early turned loose to "find out" and to take blow for blow, stays the contest out and is returned a winner.

You can't be the other fellow. Then why try to imitate him? Do something that he can't do. You have what no other human being has. The important thing is to find out for yourself just what that particular something is.

East Side - West Side

—OF—

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

New Yorkers actually know little about their town. I know one who was born and raised down near the Battery yet he has never been closer to the Statue of Liberty than the seawall. He hasn't visited the Aquarium since he was six years old and doesn't recall that visit very vividly.

One night recently a crowd of typical New Yorkers—men and women who have lived here from ten to fifteen years—met at an up-town restaurant. A game was being played in which questions were asked to ascertain what those present knew of their city. So much ignorance of New York was displayed that the host finally passed out slips of paper on which were written the names of such well known places as the Woolworth Tower, Brooklyn Bridge, the Aquarium, Bronx Park Zoo, Coney Island, The Little Church Around The Corner. Each guest was asked to name the places he had seen. Only one had seen them all and more than half of those present had seen or been in less than half of the places mentioned.

That same night I arrived late at a convention of out-of-towners at Breton Hall. There were six men at the table where I sat down. Out of curiosity I asked these men how many of the places mentioned on the card they had visited during the four days they had been in New York. All but one of them had seen them all! The delinquent brother hadn't yet visited the Statue of Liberty!

Maybe familiarity breeds contempt or, at least indifference.

Poking around on the East side near the river the other day I ventured into a Dickensian antique shop on Pearl Street—a shop, curiously enough, called Westminster Abbey. The place was littered with little, old model ships, pieces of armor, old pistols, odd pieces of bric-a-brac, or what will you have?

Behind a desk which one could easily believe had been used in ancient Egypt sat a white-haired old man—the proprietor. In a chat with him I learned that his father, who had started the shop was named Westminster Abbey; that he (the father) had known Abraham Lincoln and that, among the many valuables left by the original owner was an old daguerotype of the Great Emancipator which, some day, will be bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum.

I chatted with this fine old man for half an hour or more but he showed no sign of wishing to make a sale. He appeared to get more enjoyment out of talking about the things he had for sale. He is unique among New York shopkeepers.

Harry Thaw's return to the pages of Metropolitan papers has helped revive memories of the man he slew—Stanford White. It is well, too, because in the course of a discourse on the Washington Square arch one night recently I discovered that not one person in a party of seven knew that it was designed by the man Thaw did to death in the tower of the old Madison Square Garden. This in spite of the fact that next to the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, Washington Square arch is the best known in the world.

OHIO FARM INCOMES RISING STEADILY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6.—Incomes on Ohio farms have been rising steadily during the last three years, according to approximately 250 farm records from representative sections of the State. Records from 281 farms in 1923 show an average labor income of $840. This average increased to $1061 in 1924 on the accounts of 213 farms, many of them the same farms that averaged $840 the year before.

Farm account records of 264 Ohio farms for the past year, summarized by the department of rural economics of Ohio State University show an average of $1,481 left for the operator and his family labor after paying all farm expenses and allowing interest on his investment.

Trotters Again Lower Fairground Track Record

WEDNESDAY MARK IS TWICE SHATTERED ON THURSDAY PROGRAM

New Mark 2:12 1-4; Need Extra Heat In First Race

The local track trotting record was lowered twice for the second time during the second day's meet at the Greene County Fair Thursday afternoon, in the first and second heats of the 2:14 trot, the feature offering, which went to the Lynchburg-owned gelding, New Hope, s. g., by Silver Finch, owned by L. A. Brown and driven by Crawford. The race was worth $400.

The new track mark of 2:12 1-4, one-fourth second under the record established Wednesday by the Findlay gelding, A. Z., is held jointly by New Hope and Little Azoff, by Azoff, owned by W. S. Druley, Anderson, Ind.

Little Azoff lowered the record first in the initial heat by winning handsily when New Hope broke badly twice in the last half mile and began running after showing a flash of speed and actually forcing the winner's pace around the turn. The gelding overtook and was almost alongside the leader to finish second but was placed in fifth position, out of the money, for running.

Crawford again had trouble with New Hope in the second heat but battled along and the courageous horse contributed a game effort to draw up from fourth place and finish with a rush equalling the Little Azoff's new trotting mark for the mile. Little Azoff dropped back to seventh position.

Because of the hot weather Druley was permitted by the judges to withdraw Little Azoff from the final heat. Betsy Trengante, after running third and fifth, also succumbed to the torrid temperature, and withdrew.

With the main opposition gone, New Hope was still in difficulties in his final heat and while successful, provided the greatest entertainment of the meet to date. The horse broke shortly after assuming the lead, and then came from the last position in the last quarter, to win by a gallant effort in a hard stretch drive.

Belle Lamonte, b. m., by Bellwin, owned and well driven by Frank A. Caron, Fremont, O., won the easiest kind of a victory over an ordinary small field in straight heats in the 2:15 Pace, second event on the program. The race was for a $350 purse.

Melba Cochato, an entry of J. D. Hensley, Daleville, Ind., finished second in each heat and Harry Forbes owned by Harry Wood, Mechanicsburg, Ind., every heat. The former was always the early pacer but failed to respond to urging in the stretch and was usually in distress.

An extra heat was necessary to decide the opening event on the afternoon card, the 2:17 trot for a $350 purse. Tommy Axworthy, b. g., by Ortolan Axworthy, owned and driven by Fred Beddies, Dayton, supplied an upset by winning in the fourth and deciding heat from Bill Burro and Guy Worthy.

Guy Worthy actually finished in front but was disqualified by the judges for running in the stretch and placed in third position. Bill Burro took the first heat in convincing fashion and then wound up second the remaining brushes. Tommy Axworthy won the second and Guy Worthy the third.

Under the influence of fair weather and the fact Thursday is always the big day of the local fair, the largest attendance of the meet was recorded. Racing conditions were never better for the track was in excellent condition.

The fair was also graced with the presence of two leading candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Harry S. Day, state treasurer, attended the meet and after introductions, made short speeches.

Starting Judge A. S. Beaulieu inflicted the first fines of the meet Thursday when he fined Driver Wilsonholm $25 for repeatedly scoring Walter Frisco ahead of the pole horse in the second heat of the 2:15 pace and Driver Harrison $25 for a similar offense while holding the reins of Rose D. in the middle heat of the 2:14 trot.

The meet will close Friday with the running of the Free-For-All Pace for the Nat Hunter $500 purse, the 2:25 trot and the 2:18 pace.

TRACK NOTES

The Greene County Fair races this year are being conducted for the first time under the National Harness Horse Association rules and this innovation is not only proving satisfactory in every way but also immensely popular. Mr. Miller, representing the association at the fair, says the three-heat plan with every heat a race is drawing favorable comment on all sides. The new plan does away with so many long heats and enables the afternoon card to be finished in about three hours or better.

Peter Henley, world's champion double-gaited stallion, with a pacing record of 2:02 1-4 and a trotting mark of 2:06 3-4, owned by J. L. Haston and cared for by Omer VanKirk, Dayton, O., was displayed in front of the grand stand Thursday afternoon.

The stallion is by Peter the Great, (2:07 1-4), out of Queen Audubon, by Audubon Boy (1:59 1-4), and is winner of The American Sportsman Stake, Western Horseman Futurity, the King Stake, Hotel Hartman Stake, et cetera.

Peter Henley is rated as the fastest, handiest, most richly bred and best race horse, son of Peter the Great.

The Xenia Municipal Band furnished musical entertainment Thursday between heats. The New Burlington Band had the stand Wednesday and the fair management planned for a different musical combination Friday.

In the second heat of the 2:17 trot Thursday the finish was so close between Tommy Axworthy and Bill Burro that the crowd found a lot of fault with the decision giving in to the former. It was almost a dead heat and the grand stand was divided in its opinion. A decision either way would have met with some disapproval in all events. However, Tommy Axworthy actually beat the Croton horse to the wire by the smallest possible fraction in the closest finish of the meet, the judges ruled.

Driver Wilsonholm, up behind Walter Frisco, drew the first fine of the meet in the second heat of the 2:15 pace for persistently scoring out in front of the pole horse. Starter Beaulieu fined him $25. Harrison was guilty of similar misbehavior behind Rose D. in the middle heat of the 2:14 trot and the starter inflicted his second $25 penalty.

The racing during the past two days has been remarkable for the fast heats. A. Z. lowered the track trotting record by a full second Wednesday with his time of 2:12 1-4 and this mark was bettered one-fourth second by both New Hope and Little Azoff Thursday. The pacing record was in danger in the Free-For-All event Friday.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY POLICEMEN HERE AT WASHINGTON PARK

Management of the Xenia Merchants, through the courtesy of owners of the Xenia Reserve Baseball Club has arranged to play the scheduled game with the Dayton Police Department Sunday afternoon at Washington Park in place of the new Merchants' Park on E Main St.

The park would otherwise not be utilized Sunday as the Reserves travel to Harshmanville for the first of a series of three games with the strong Harshman nine.

The Dayton Police are well remembered for the wonderful game against the Reserves several weeks ago in which the "coops" lost a close 2 to 1 decision.

The Merchants are being primed for the game and expect to turn in a victory. There is no change in starting time for the game and "play ball" will be called at 3 o'clock, fast time, as usual.

RESERVES FURNISH TRUCKS FOR FANS ATTENDING FRACAS

Free transportation to Harshmanville Sunday afternoon for those fans wishing to attend the first of the three-game series between the Xenia Reserves and Harshman, is to be furnished by the Reserve management, it is announced.

Fans desiring to avail themselves of this offer are asked to meet at the American Restaurant, W. Main St., Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, fast time. The team as well as fans will make the trip in trucks chartered for the occasion.

The opening contest of the series is expected to be a thriller and a large Xenia crowd is expected to accompany the local nine to Harshmanville.

Cyphers will assume the task of hurling the initial game and will be opposed by his old team mate, Glass.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Franklin Parker

THE GIVING OF MANNA

THE GOLDEN TEXT: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John 6:35.

TIME: (Beecher) B. C. 1498, probably in the third month of the year.

PLACE: The Israelites travel southeastward near the Gulf of Suez, in the direction of Mount Sinai.

INTRODUCTION: The Israelites sang a new famous song of deliverance and then started on their long journey to that promised land. Their first stop was at Marah, where they found the water bitter and they murmured against Moses, because their faith in God was weak. Next they stopped at Elim, where there were palm trees and wells of sweet water. In the second month, on the fifteenth day they reached the wilderness of Sin, about which the present lesson is written.

1. CRY FOR BREAD: The people again cried out against Moses, and even God, because they were hungry and thought they were starving for want of bread. What foolish and forgetful people, yet we are just like them. God is able to deliver us in all instances if we have faith and trust in Him sincerely. Our faith is to depend on circumstances. We need a faith that is impervious to wind, weather, the emptiness of our flour barrel, and the state of our bank account. God is still God, even if we do not see just what we need, trust Him and He may give us even more than we have expected. Hunger is a powerful agency in all stations of life. Feed a starving man then read the Bible to him and the result will be gained but it will be lost if we try the reverse manner. Jesus first fed the hungry people before he preached to them and even in His model prayer He taught us to say, "Give us this day our daily bread."

2. GOD REBUKES MURMURING: Moses rebuked them for their foolish murmuring which was really against God instead of them.

When things do not come out to our plans and expectations we complain, just as they, and we imagine things should be better, when it is our fault. They thought that they would rather die in slavery, in Egypt, but they were insincere, because here they had liberty even if they did not have bread, and they did not want to die in a strange land. So when we truly think, we realize that those days are not nearly as good as the present. Having committed ourselves to the Lord let us permit Him to bring it to pass, let us stop our complaining and endure hardship, as good as soldiers of Jesus.

3. RAINS BREAD, MANNA: God is considerate: He said, "I will rain bread from heaven for you." All our bread comes from heaven. He who created us, our need for food, created the wheat and the orchard for our satisfaction. Nature and the earth seem to produce everything but who created the earth, sun, sky, and gave life to the leaf and bud. In God we live and move and have our being, and we should acknowledge Him in all our ways, in our work as well as in our worship. The promise of bread from heaven reveals to us the unlimited resources of our Provider. The Israelites couldn't see any wheat fields there in the wilderness, and they thought they must starve. All humanity is so forgetful. God's farm is the entire universe and He can reap where and when He pleases. Our predicament may be a test of our faith and if we trust God sincerely He will deliver us from our situation.

4. HELP OURSELVES: "The people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day." God is willing to feed us, but we must do our part and not appear helpless or useless. Our entire vast system of industry proves that we are God's partners in feeding the entire world. He created the soil, we plough it; He created the small seed, we plant it; He gives the rain, sunshine and causes it to grow. If we do not perform our part, He does not begin. "If any man will not work, neither let him eat." 2 Thess. 3:10. When they gathered more than a day's portion the surplus spoiled with the exception of on Saturday God commanded them to pick up a sufficient supply for both Saturday and Sunday. We are taught to pray for our daily bread and if we try to gather too much it often spoils and most always spoils us.

5. SABBATH'S PROVISIONS: Thus the day of rest, the Sabbath, was kept in the wilderness, by the people gathering enough to do them over the seventh day of the week. Even a locomotive must have its rest. Man can do much more work in a year by working six days a week than he can if he puts in seven days. Not only do we need that day of rest for our bodies, but also for the meditation and worship that it provides for our enjoyment. Man cannot live by bread alone but rather from the words that proceed from the mouth of God, which all point to Jesus Christ.

6. GOD FULFILLS A PROMISE: "I will give you manna, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am Jehovah your God. God supplied the food. At even the quails did appear and in the morn the ground was covered with a strange substance and they learned that it was the manna, bread, that God had supplied according to His word. This manna points to heavenly manna, "Your fathers," said Jesus, "ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died. I am the living bread that came down out of heaven if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever." John 6:49, 51.

7. FORTY YEARS: "And the children of Israel did eat manna for forty years, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan." God kept His promise to provide for them to the end. We come to our wit's ends but God feeds the worlds millions and has enough and to spare. All God's resources are pledged to our sustenance and care until we reach that heavenly Canaan.

RADIO RELIGIOUS PROGRAMS ARE FILLING CHURCHES
Radio religious programs are filling the churches rather than emptying them. This is the trend indicated by a survey of sacred broadcasting just made.

Fourteen of these 103 stations are owned or operated by some church or religious body. The rest simply include these features along with secular programs, because they feel their audience wants and appreciates them.

Sunday is the day that eighty-six of these stations send out their sacred programs, while twenty-two are on week days. The week day programs consist of sacred music or instructional address. A number of these services are held every morning somewhere between 7 and 8 o'clock. Actual church services are broadcast in eighty-six instances while in twenty-two cases the religious faith program is prepared especially for the radio and is sent out direct from the studio. Forty stations report definite co-operation from the minister, none report antagonism, while the rest did not mention this angle of the situation. One or two replies told of resentment and jealousy on the part of the local clergymen who were not broadcasting, because their congregations were apt to stay at home.

BIBLE STORY
Now when the other great lord, the chief baker, heard how well his comrade sped with the interpretation of his dream, he also plucked up heart, and said: "In my dream, I had three baskets on my head, and the uppermost one was filled with all kinds of dainties for the King's table. And, behold, the birds came and ate them all out of the basket on my head." Then I think Joseph turned his face away, and spoke slowly and reluctantly. For this was what he had to say: "Again the three baskets are three days. In three days Pharaoh shall cause you to be hanged, and the birds shall eat your flesh from off your bones."

Even as Joseph had said, so it came to pass. For in three days the King's birthday came round, and there was a great feast in the palace. Then, as he feasted, the King remembered his two courtiers in prison. On the chief butler he had compassion and gave him back his place again, so that he gave the cup to the royal hand as of old. But the chief baker found no mercy; he was hanged, even as Joseph had forewarned him. Nevertheless, in his joy of getting his honours back again, the chief butler forgot all about the young Hebrew who had foretold his good fortune, and Joseph was still left in prison.

For two years more he lay there. Indeed, what between his service in Potiphar's house and the time of his imprisonment, he had now come to be a man in the prime and strength of life. And then it so happened that one night the King also dreamed a dream. In his dream he stood by the great river Nile, which made Egypt in the beginning, and kept it ever fruitful. And, as he looked down the bank, behold, seven cattle, sleek and fat, came up out of the stream and fell to grazing in the meadow. Then the King looked again, and lo! seven other cattle came up on the bank, as the first seven had done, but these were lean and starved. They came beside the others, and even as Pharaoh looked on them, behold the seven starved beasts devoured the seven well fed ones. Yet none could tell that they were fatter for what they had eaten, so lean and hungry they still appeared. So the King awoke, and the day passed.

XENIAN TO COMPETE WITH SHARP SHOTS IN CLINTON COUNTY

The Wilmington Rifle Club, through Secretary M. L. Bonta, and on behalf of the riflemen of Clinton County, has accepted the challenge of Perry Swindler, Xenia, former crack army marksman, to meet him in a small bore rifle match, it is announced.

The match will take place Sunday, August 8, on the Wilmington club's range at Rosedale Park on the Xenia Pike, two and one-half miles from Wilmington.

The club, on that date, is holding a small bore rifle match which will have entrants from McCook Field, Columbus Business Men's Club, Columbus Rifle, National Cash Register, King's Mills, Hillsboro and Wilmington Rifle Clubs. The ranges to be fired are fifty and 100 yards.

Swindler recently established himself as the best shot in this city, defeating two challengers in a special match. He also hopes to organize a rifle team here to compete with clubs of other cities.

Swindler won medals for expert pistol and rifle marksmanship while with the Army of Occupation in Germany following the World War when he qualified as a crack shot in long range shooting, rapid fire and pistol fire.

CANDIDATES SPEAK BRIEFLY THURSDAY BEFORE FAIR CROWD

Continuing their swing over Ohio in an effort to meet as many voters as possible, Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Harry S. Day, state treasurer, candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, spent several hours Thursday afternoon at the Greene County Fair.

Mr. Day, introduced by Starter Beaulieu, made a short address from the judge's stand in which he complimented the local fair and stressed its educational as well as social advantages.

Mr. Cooper made a longer speech from a truck drawn up on the track in front of the grand stand. He was introduced by Horace Ankeney, Beaver Creek Twp., farmer, and former state dairy and food commissioner.

Mr. Cooper, who for the past ten years has served as president of the Ohio Fair Managers' Association, declared in his address that "people of Greene County may feel justly proud of the fair which is one of the best in Ohio."

Cooper declared the problem of the farmer is everybody's problem since the raising of food stuffs affects every fireside.

Both candidates were met upon their arrival here by delegations of Greene County citizens and each spent the greater part of the afternoon, mingling with the fair crowd, meeting voters and Republican leaders.

"Pig Woman" Questioned

Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills murder case, was photographed questioning Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," following which he announced he would ask for four murder indictments.

EIGHTY ABSENT VOTES ARE CAST

With the August 10 primary but three days distant, eighty votes have already been cast by Greene County citizens, who expect to be away from the city election day and do not wish to surrender their right of franchise.

These votes have been cast under the absent voter's ballot system at the Clerk of Court's office in the Court House.

Earl Short, clerk of the board of elections, announces the clerk's office will remain open until Saturday at midnight for accommodation of voters. Absent ballots will be available until that hour.

The absent ballot vote this year was slow at first but in recent days many votes are being cast and a normal vote is expected by Mr. Short.

The Gilded Rose

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN RIDGEWAY learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia leaps of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together, while she will be with her beloved Landis.

Landis, finding himself alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. Some hours later that evening, Rosilyn who is bewildered to find herself spending the evening in the company of Rupert Briscoe, sees her husband dancing with Lydia—in his eyes a look of rapture. She believes he has seen her but is too rude—or ashamed—to speak. Briscoe asks her to go on to a night-club, and in a mood of recklessness she consents.

In Paris Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweet heart of Briscoe's in connection with a plan. These two arrange to come to New York where Marietta is to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Long after Rosilyn's return home Lydia, by a clever ruse persuades Landis to take her for a taxi ride to Jersey. There in the early dawn speeding through the country side his old infatuation asserts itself and he gathers the girl in his arms.

Landis returns from Jersey leaves Lydia and upon finding his wife's door locked decides to put up at his club. Early the next morning he receives a phone call from Lydia.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Interference

"Good morning, my dear child! Not up yet? And where is Landis?" In the gold and ivory bedroom where Rosilyn was still reclining, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, stooped to implant a kiss upon her daughter-in-law's smooth cheek.

The girl sat up in bed, her hair tumbled on her shoulders, and her eyes blinking at the newcomer.

"I didn't know the time. We were very late last night."

"Aha! Gay honeymooners! I simply couldn't make you hear when I phoned from down below. Is Landis still slumbering?"

"I don't know. I suppose he's in his room."

With determined tread, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, crossed the sitting room towards the other bedroom door. In the days of her own honeymoon, there had been no question of this "separate" idea.

But of course the world had changed since then, and one must march with the times.

She flung the door of the other apartment open, and perceived an empty bed, the coverlet neatly folded, and the sleeping-sack laid out as though in anticipation of its owner's advent. Gracious! That meant, without a doubt, that Landis had been out all night!

She hesitated, then returned to Landis' wife.

"You said you were both very late last night. At what hour did Landis return, my dear?"

Rosilyn busied herself with a silken wrap about her shoulders, fastening it carefully before she said:

"Oh, I came back a little before he did. I can't stand too much gaiety, you know."

"And didn't he come with you?" The girl evaded the older woman's glance.

"A friend brought me back to the hotel. Landis must have followed soon after."

"Odd! His bed hasn't been slept in."

Rosilyn gave no sign, though her heart beat painfully.

"We were all very late, and I wouldn't be surprised if he'd lain on the couch in the sitting-room for a bit, and then dressed and gone round to his club, or something."

Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, seated herself on a high-backed chair. "You're picking up the ways of the modern set quicker than I thought you would!"

"And do you blame me?" Rosilyn smiled at her mother-in-law. She would keep her flags flying. This naughty lady should never find out what she suffered.

"D'you mind if I telephone for coffee? And will you have some with me?"

The 'grande dame' graciously consented.

While Rosilyn did the telephoning, she took a long look at the girl. Yes—in the clear morning light, with not even a "suspicion" of powder on her face, and her dark hair tumbled over her shoulders—she looked surprisingly attractive, and absurdly young.

And Landis was already back to his old gay ways!

She ought to give the child a hint.

When the waiter had brought the coffee, and the pair were sipping the hot liquid, Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, said, in a confidential tone:

"You know my dear, I loathe the idea of the old-time, interfering mother-in-law—but if I were you, much as I love Landis, I shouldn't give him too much rope."

The bride's cup was suspended for a moment in mid-air as she commented:

"Why?"

The older woman gave a tiny artificial laugh. How naive was this Rosilyn! Had she no common-sense at all?

"He's a good-looking youngster, and women have always spoiled him. Even if he is married, there's a type, you know, to whom his marriage wouldn't make a teeny bit of difference. They'd pursue him, just the same."

Her listener's beautiful eyes widened. They were dark-fringed, and exquisitely expressive.

"In that case, isn't it rather up to Landis? It wouldn't have anything to do with me?"

The other's firm lips twisted in a rather crooked smile.

"You're even more 'advanced' than I thought, it seems. But I can assure you the general idea would be that it rather had to do with you."

Rosilyn sipped her coffee faintly.

Praises Resinol

for curing ivy poisoning
Itching stopped after first application

Media, Pa., June 26:—"I wonder if you realize how valuable Resinol Salve is as a cure for Ivy Poisoning. We have used it for three members of our household this summer."

After the first application the itching sensation passes away and simply does not return." (Signed) Mrs. W. G. McNeese, Providence Rd. at Fifth St.

Resinol Ointment is also invaluable for the quick relief of sunburn, insect stings, hives, itching rashes, chafing, etc.

A bath with Resinol Soap and tepid water is most refreshing and invigorating at the close of a hot, dusty day.

ily, sitting up in bed in childish fashion.

"When you came here this morning, had you anything in particular you wished to tell me? Because, as a matter of fact—she looked her vis-a-vis directly in the eyes—"I would rather not discuss Landis—even with you."

This was a spirit for which Mrs. Ridgeway, senior, was totally unprepared. She had never dreamt the little country girl had it in her to take a stand like that, and in her inmost heart a spark of admiration for her daughter-in-law sprang into being. A foeman worthy of her steel was something the good lady was totally unprepared for.

There was a pregnant pause. And then, setting down her coffee-cup, the older woman said, brusquely but sincerely:

"You'll do, Rosilyn! You'll find your feet among our set! When I spoke of not giving Landis too much rope, I didn't mean that he would necessarily hang himself! I only wanted to convey a hint that the young men with whom he has mixed are not demigods. But, with the right woman's influence Landis could become something rather fine."

Tomorrow: Rosilyn Prepares.

FOSSIL REMAINS OF GIANT KANGAROOS FOUND IN AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, July 31.—Fossil remains of giant kangaroos, which on being set up are computed to have been twelve feet in height, have been discovered in limestone caves in the southwestern part of Victoria.

A still more interesting discovery in the same caves was of a flint implement shaped rudely by hands that were stilled many thousands of years ago.

The flint has been examined by competent Melbourne archaeologists and other scientists, who believe that it is at least 15,000 years old. They are almost certain that the giant kangaroos and the wielder of the flint implement were contemporary. The flint fits fairly well the description of the Chellean type of instrument, the oldest known implements that are certainly the work of man. It is held not to be the work of even the oldest of Australia's present race of aborigines.

The discovery of the prehistoric skull at Cohuna a few months ago, this latest discovery, and other facts gleaned by geologists and philologists, all point to the minds of scientists, to one general conclusion—that Australia shares in the childhood of man. A wave of enthusiasm is beginning to sweep over students to investigate whether this country, and not Asia, as is generally accepted, is the cradle of man.

John Baughn For Sheriff

(From Greene County Journal, Jamestown)

The Greene County Journal is glad to say a good word, unsolicited, for the candidacy of John Baughn, of Jamestown, for Sheriff of the county.

It has been the custom in Greene County, and other counties for that matter, to move up the Deputy Sheriff to the Sheriff's position if he proves capable and industrious.

That John Baughn has proven a capable Deputy Sheriff need not be said here. Everyone knows he has made good. He has been zealous in the discharge of his duties, has been courteous in their performance and has left nothing undone to see that the county's interests, insofar as his part of the work is concerned, have been taken care of.

This paper has known John Baughn a great many years. For some years he was connected with it, in an important capacity, and it may be said that we regretted that he decided to leave newspaper work and become Deputy Sheriff. That is perhaps the best testimonial we could give him—that he would always have a place on the Journal.

There is no reason to believe that John Baughn will make other than a capable, efficient, hard-working Sheriff of Greene County and there is little doubt that the Republicans will name him for that office next Tuesday, as they should, we believe. He is not only deserving of the office, but capable of filling it properly and satisfactorily.

We commend him to the voters of Greene County.
